PRESENT:

The Honorable JAMES EWING, Esquire, Vice President.

James Irvine,	Stephen Balliot,	Esquires.
John Boyd,	George Wall, Jun'r, and
John McDowell,	Isaac Mason,

Upon consideration,

Resolved, That Lawrence Keene, Esquire, of Northumberland County, be appointed and commissioned a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in the said county.

A draft of a message to the General Assembly was laid before the Board and read; which, being considered, was agreed to in the words following, to wit:

A message from the President and Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—We congratulate you on the Definitive Treaty between the United States & Great Britain, and the ratification of it, which closes the contest with the forms established by usage upon similar occasions.

Having entered into the society of sovereign Nations, it becomes the duty of those who are invested with the authority of each State, diligently and carefully to deliberate upon the measures by which they may be enabled to improve the blessings of peace.

Your wisdom, we are persuaded, will determine that one of the most effectual means for attaining that end, will be to cultivate a spirit of Union among our constituents, and a confidence in the public councils; and we rely on your prudence and attention to the welfare of the Commonwealth for a happy increase of these desireable dispositions.

Gentlemen, several national affairs of importance have occurred to us, upon which we have written to our delegates. Some of them require the exertions of your authority without loss of time, particularly the late proclamation of his Brittannic Majesty; and we shall be pleased, if our sentiments meet with your approbation. Copies of the letters will be communicated by the Secretary. He will also deliver to you letters from the President of Congress of the twenty-third of December and the fourteenth of January; from the Delegation of the thirtieth of December and the thirteenth of January; from the Governor of Connecticut of the fifteenth; and from General Armand of the twenty-fifth of November; and from Mr. De Creveceur of the twenty-third of December.

The advancement of the revenue by ways that shall be most easy to the people, demands immediate and serious consideration. The experience of other countries, and the examples of some of these States, point out the propriety of further imposts upon imported merchandizes. This arrangement is reconcileable to that smallness of port-charges and simplicity of customs, which are of so much consequence to commerce, and also to the intercourse with the other States, which cannot be too assiduously promoted. The excise may be rendered more productive. Duties on several articles that might be enumerated, appear to us adviseable. By such regulations, we apprehend very beneficial and reasonable contributions might be procured from those who are able to afford them, and in a manner the most convenient, and the burthens upon landholders and the poorer classes of our fellow-citizens be alleviated. We think it unnecessary to repeat some other observations relating to revenue that have been mentioned in former messages. If adequate funds are appropriated, so that prompt and exact payments can be made, the interest of loans may, with entire satisfaction to lenders, become more moderate, to the great relief of the State. The bank may in time facilitate operations of this kind. When public credit shall have acquired stability by a firm adherence to sound principles of policy, regularity and justice, with their salutary influences, may pervade the whole administration of Government.

A due order and accurate method in preparing all our products in the best manner for exportation, are absolutely necessary for recommending them abroad.

The conveyance and transportation of commodities from one place to another, with the least trouble and expence, are objects that claim the strictest regard.

Roads towards the western and northern frontiers are much wanted.

It might be of use if the laws respecting insolvent traders and dealers, were so altered that an equitable distribution might be made of their effects among their creditors, saving the rights of mortgagees and landlords, and a permanent rule be fixed as to the release of their persons.

Counterfeiters of the papers called checks, and also of any certificates issued by the State, should be exemplarily punished. Suitable provision has not been yet made against theft of such property.

The Admiralty Jurisdiction admits of very advantageous alterations. It is of moment that at this early period of our independance, we should become known to foreigners as a people among whom they are sure in all their concerns of ample protection, and of an effectual, cheap and speedy administration of justice.

No authority has been vested in Council for carrying into execution the treaties of amity and commerce between the United States and other powers, as far forth as occurrences may happen within this State, where the exercise of such authority may be required.

It is our most earnest wish that the General Assembly may allways cherish and patronize, in a very distinguished manner, that basis of Pennsylvanian commerce, agriculture. By their assistance, the useful discoveries that have been, or shall be made in countries longer settled, may soon be introduced, and be generally communicated, that otherwise might remain little known here for ages to come. The ingenious and learned gentlemen who compose the Philosophical Society, we are assured, would rejoice to execute the generous designs of the Legislature, and would faithfully apply and account for any sums of money that should be committed to their management for these purposes.

Another great encouragement of agriculture would be afforded by rendering purchases of land more safe. This might in a considerable degree be accomplished, by quieting possessions after a reasonable term of years, and by having the records in all the public offices kept in a manner easy to be prescribed, so that a title could be readily traced through them. Under a law passed the seventh of July, 1759, duplicates were made of a great number of papers in the Secretary's and Surveyor General's offices, for rendering real estates more secure. It seems worthy the consideration of the Legislature how these valuable records should be preserved, and whether the collection should be continued.

If to the natural advantages of this State be added the habits of industry, frugality, and temperance, her prospects will be very favorable. These are not only private virtues, contributing to the happiness of individuals. They are public benefits, contributing to the happiness of a society. It is the combination of these qualities that must determine whether trade shall enrich and strengthen or impoverish and weaken; that is to cause the production and exportation of native commodities to bear a due proportion to our imports; that leads to a correction of errors concerning mechanics and manufacturers, those necessary members in the body of a community, and that tends so directly to diffuse vigor throughout government.

The cases in which the inestimable writ of habeas corpus is to issue, and the mode of obtaining a proceeding upon it, should be ascertained with precision, so that no doubts, delays, or difficulties may obstruct the relief it ought to yield.

It seems proper also that the duties of Grand Juries should be more expressly defined.

The acts relating to elections require a revision; and many and great amendments remain to be made in those for regulating the militia.

Gentlemen:—It is much to be desired that the system of our jurisprudence may receive every improvement we can give it, as soon as such a work can be accomplished. Constancy in the laws, the preservation of domestic concord, order, and tranquility, and strength sufficiently prepared for defence against injuries, are essential to the happiness of a State. They are also the foundation of a reputation that invites an accession of ingenious and industrious people from other parts of the world to share in the blessings of which such a character offers them an assurance.

Every citizen of Pennsylvania, therefore, who respects his own interest, the welfare of his family, or the prosperity of his country, will desire and endeavour that the vast importance of these subjects may be perfectly understood and religiously regarded.

From the measures of your Honorable House, gentlemen, we trust they will derive a recommendation and sanction.

JOHN DICKINSON.

Council Chamber, Philadelphia, January 19th, 1784.

Ordered, That the Secretary present the foregoing message to the Honorable the Speaker of the General Assembly.

The Council met.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, January 20th, 1784.

Of John Forster, Administrator of the estate of Deborah Siddens, deceased, for provisions furnished the militia in 1776.

Of William Bailey, for provisions furnished the Northumberland militia in 1777.

Of Lieutenant Henry Antes, for volunteer service, (Note—the report of the twenty-seventh of March, 1783, is that which Council adopt by this resolution,) and of John Dunlap, for printing, &c., done for the State. On this account an order was drawn for one hundred and fifty two pounds ten shillings, in favor of Mr. Dunlap. £152 10 0

The Council met.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, January 21st, 1784.

PRESENT:

The Honorable JAMES EWING, Esquire, Vice President.

The Hon'ble James Irvine, George Wall, Jun'r, John McDowell, John Boyd, Bernard Dougherty, Stephen Balliot, Isaac Mason, and Samuel J. Atlee, } Esquires.

The following orders were drawn on the Treasurer of the State, viz:

£60 9 0 In favor of the Honorable Thomas Hartley, Esquire, for sixty pounds nine shillings specie, in full for his attendance in the Council of Censors till this day, inclusively.

51 8 6 In favor of the Honorable Stephen Chambers, Esquire, for fifty-one pounds eight shillings and sixpence specie, in full for attendance as aforesaid.

The said sums, together with their mileage, to be agreeably to resolution of Assembly of 22nd November, 1783, out of money appropriated for expences of Government.

71 0 0 In favor of the Honorable John Smiley, Esquire, for seventy-one pounds specie, in full for attendance in said Council 'till the fourteenth instant, inclusively, and his mileage, to be paid out of the same fund as the preceding orders.

A draft of a message to the Honorable the General Assembly, was read, adopted as follows, and presented by the Secretary:

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—Many persons are settling without legal authority upon lands belonging to the State, which have always been considered as a very valuable fund for relieving the Commonwealth from the heavy burthen of public debts.

These settlers may become numerous and troublesome, unless some effectual means can be devised for preventing the mischiefs that are to be apprehended from such irregular proceedings.

We should be glad if you would be pleased to make a further allowance for defraying the expence of a clerk to assist the Secretary, as we think his salary no more than a reasonable compensation for his own services.

As we wish not to exercise any power that is not plainly vested in us, and as application has been made to us upon the subject, we re desirous that the authority for laying out highways should be more clearly ascertained.

Goods damaged or saved out of wrecked vessels, are by law to be sold under our direction. This power might, in our opinion, with more propriety, be annexed to the Admiralty jurisdiction.

It does not appear to us that sufficient precautions are yet taken for guarding against the introduction of infectious diseases by sickly vessels.

You will approve, we are persuaded, our earnest desire that the citizens of this State may be prohibited from being in any manner concerned in the slave trade.

Great complaints are made for want of regulations respecting the cording, sale and halling of wood.

An act "for regulating waggoners, carters, draymen, and porters, within the city of Philadelphia, and for other purposes therein mentioned," expired in the year 1777. We hope you will be pleased to consider whether that act ought to be revived, with some alterations; and also, whether further provision ought not to be made as to the assize of bread, and the authority and duty of clerks of markets.

The agreement between this State and the State of New Jersey having provided, "that the judicial investigation and determination of all capital and other offences, trespasses, and damages committed on the river, shall be exclusively vested in the State wherein the offender or person charged with such offence shall be first arrested or prosecuted," it seems necessary that the criminal jurisdiction as to such offences, tresspasses, and damages, should be given to the counties adjoining the Delaware; and also that the sheriffs of those counties should have the powers of water bailiffs for executing civil process.

Punishments should be so proportion to crimes as very rarely to render a pardon proper. They should, therefore, in several instances, be less severe, and particularly some of those to be inflicted upon women.

Criminals convicted of offences not capital, and unable to pay their fines and fees, frequently remain in prison at the public charge. Some mode should be directed for disposing of them so that they may not continue an expence to the State.

JOHN DICKINSON.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, Definitive Articles of Peace and Amity between the United States and his Britannic Majesty, were concluded and signed at Paris, on the third day of September, 1783, by the Plenipotentiaries of the said United States and of his said Britannic Majesty, duly and respectively authorised for that purpose, which definitive Articles are in the words following:

"Article 1st. His Britannic Majesty acknowledges the said United States, vizt: New Hampshire, Massachusets Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, to be free, sovereign, and independent States; that he treats with them as such, and for himself, his heirs, and successors, relinquishes all claims to the Government, property, and territorial rights of the same, and every part thereof.

"Article 2nd. And that all disputes which might arise in future on the subject of the boundaries of the said United States may be prevented, it is hereby agreed and declared, that the following are and shall be their boundaries, vizt: From the north-west angle of Nova Scotia, vizt: that angle which is formed by a line drawn due north from the source of St. Croix river to the highlands, along the said highlands, which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean, to the north-westernmost head of Connecticut river; thence down along the middle of that river to the forty-fifth degree of north latitude; from thence by a line due west on said latitude until it strikes the river Iroquois or Cataraqui; thence along the middle of the said river into Lake Ontario, through the middle of the said lake, until it strikes the communication by water between that lake and lake Erie; thence along the middle of said communication into lake Erie, through the middle of said lake, untill it arrives at the water communication between that lake and lake Huron; thence through the middle of said lake to the water communication between that lake and lake Superior; thence through lake Superior northward of the Isles Royal and Philipeaux to the Long lake; thence through the middle of said Long lake and the water communication between it and the lake of the Woods, to the said lake of the Woods; thence through the said lake to the most north western point thereof, and from thence on a due west course to the river Mississippi; thence by a line to be drawn along the middle of the said river Mississippi until it intersect the northernmost part of the thirty-first degree of north latitude south, by a line drawn due east from the determination of the line last mentioned, in the latitude of thirty-one degrees north of the equator to the middle of the river Apalachicola or Catahouche; thence along the middle thereof to its junction with the Flint river; thence strait to the head of St. Mary's river; and thence down along the middle of St. Mary's river to the Atlantic ocean east, by a line to be drawn along the middle of the river St. Croix from its mouth in the Bay of Fundy to its source, and from its source directly north to the aforesaid highlands which divide the rivers that fall into the Atlantic ocean from those which fall into the river St. Lawrence, comprehending all islands within twenty leagues of any part of the shores of the United States, and lying between lines to be drawn due west from the points where the aforesaid boundaries between Nova Scotia on the one part and East Florida on the other shall respectively touch the Bay of Fundy and the Atlantic ocean, excepting such islands as now are or heretofore have been within the limits of the said Province of Nova Scotia.

Article 3rd. It is agreed that the people of the United States shall continue to enjoy unmolested the right to take fish of every kind on the Grand Bank, and on all the other Banks of Newfoundland; also in the Gulph of St. Lawrence, and all other places in the sea, where the inhabitants of both countries used at any time heretofore to fish. And also, that the inhabitants of the United States shall have liberty to take fish of every kind on such part of the coast of Newfoundland as British fishermen shall use, (but not to dry or cure the same on that island,) and also on the coasts, bays, and creeks of all others of his Britannic Majesty's dominions in America; and that the American fishermen shall have liberty to dry and cure fish in any of the unsettled bays, harbours, and creeks, of Nova Scotia, Magdalen Island, and Labrador, so long as they shall remain unsettled; but so soon as the same, or either of them, shall be settled, it shall not be lawful for the said fishermen to dry or cure fish at such settlements, without a previous agreement for that purpose, with the inhabitants, proprietors, or possessors of the ground.

Article 4th. It is agreed that the creditors on either side shall meet with no lawful impediment to the recovery of the full value in sterling money, of all bona fide debts heretofore contracted.

Article 5th. It is agreed that Congress shall earnestly recommend it to the Legislatures of the several States to provide for the restitution of all estates, rights, and properties which have been confiscated, belonging to real British subjects; and also all the estates, rights, and properties of persons resident in districts in possession of his Majesty's arms, and who have not borne arms against the said United States; and that persons of any other description shall have free liberty to go to any part or parts of the thirteen United States, and therein to remain twelve months unmolested in their endeavours to obtain a restitution of such their estates, rights, and properties, as may have been confiscated; and that Congress shall also earnestly recommend to the several States a reconsideration and revision of all acts or laws regarding the premises, so as to render the said laws perfectly consistent, not only with justice and equity, but with that spirit of conciliation which, on the return of the blessings of peace, should universally prevail. And that Congress shall also earnestly recommend to the several States, that the estates, rights and properties of such last-mentioned persons, shall be restored to them, they refunding to any persons who may be now in possession, the bona fide price, (where any has been given,) which such persons may have paid on purchasing any of the said lands, rights, and properties, since the confiscation. And it is agreed that all persons who have any interest in confiscated lands, either by debts, marriage settlements, or otherwise, shall meet with no lawful impediment in the prosecution of their just rights.

Article 6th. That there shall be no future confiscations made, nor any prosecutions commenced against any person or persons, for or by reason of the part which he or they may have taken in the present war; and that no person shall, on that account, suffer any further loss or damage, either in his person, liberty, or property, and that those who may be in confinement on such charges at the time of the ratification of the treaty in America, shall be immediately set at liberty, and the prosecution so commenced be discontinued.

Article 7th. There shall be a firm and perpetual peace between his Brittanic Majesty and the said States, and between the subjects of the one and the citizens of the other: wherefore, all hostilities, both by sea and land, shall from henceforth cease; all prisoners, on both sides, shall be set at liberty, and his Britannic Majesty shall, with all convenient speed, and without causing any destruction, or carrying away any negroes or other property of the American inhabitants, withdraw all his armies, garrisons, and fleets, from the said United States, and from every port, place, and harbour, within the same, leaving in all fortifications the American artillery that may be therein, and shall also order and cause all archives, records, deeds, and papers, belonging to any of the said States, or their citizens, which, in the course of the war, may have fallen into the hands of any of his officers, to be forthwith restored and delivered to the proper State and persons to whom they belong.

Article 8th. The navigation of the river Mississippi, from its source to the ocean, shall for ever remain free and open to the subjects of Great Britain and the citizens of the United States.

Article 9th. In case it should happen that any place or territory belonging to Great Britain or to the United States, should have been conquered by the arms of either from the other, before the arrival of the said provisional articles in America, it is agreed that the same shall be restored without difficulty, and without requiring any compensation.

Article 10th. The solemn ratification of the present treaty, expedited in good and due form, shall be exchanged between the contracting parties in the space of six months, or sooner if possible, to be computed from the day of the signature of the present treaty. In witness whereof we, the undersigned their Ministers Plenipotentiary, have in their, and in virtue of our full powers, signed with our hands the present definitive treaty, and caused the seals of our arms to be affixed thereto."

And whereas, The United States in Congress Assembled, having seen and duly considered the definitive articles aforesaid, did by a certain article, under the seal of the United States, bearing date the fourteenth day of January, 1784, approve, ratify, and confirm the same, and every part and clause thereof, engaging and promising that they would faithfully perform and observe the same, and never to suffer them to be violated by any one, or transgressed in any manner, as far as should be in their power:

And whereas, The said United States being sincerely disposed to carry the said articles into execution truly, honestly, and with good faith, according to the intent and meaning thereof, by their proclamation bearing date on the said fourteenth day of January, to notify the premises to all the good citizens of these States, thereby enjoining all bodies of Magistracy, Legislative, Executive, and Judiciary, all persons bearing offices, civil or military, of what rank, degree, or powers, and all others the good citizens of these States, of every vocation and condition, that, reverencing those stipulations entered into on their behalf, under the authority of that Fœderal bond by which their existence as an independent people is bound up together, and is known and acknowledged by the Nations of the world, and with that good faith which is every man's surest guide, within their several offices, jurisdictions, and vocations, they carry into effect the said definitive articles, and every clause and sentence thereof, strictly and completely:

We have thought fit to make known the premises to the citizens of this State, and we do hereby strictly charge and command them to observe and act conformable to the same; and we do hereby require all Sheriffs to cause this proclamation to be made public in their respective counties.

Given in Council, under the hand of the President and the seal of the State, at Philadelphia, this twenty-second day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four.

A Message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—In pursuance of the resolution of the General Assembly of the twenty-fifth of last September, we have appointed Samuel John Atlee, William McClay, and Francis Johnston, Esquires, Commissioners to hold a treaty with the Indians claiming the unpurchased territory within the acknowledged limits of this State, for the purpose of purchasing the same.

In an affair of so much importance, we should be glad to know whether it is the sense of your Honorable House that the Commissioners of this State should hold a treaty for the purpose before mentioned, if any circumstance should prevent Congress from holding a convention with the Indians residing in the northern and middle departments, as such a separate treaty must be attended with a very great expence to this Commonwealth, and the measure involves considerations of much moment.

And whereas, The Honorable the Congress, by their act of the twenty-ninth of the same month, did "recommend to the Supreme Executive authority of each of these United States, forthwith to issue their proclamations, offering a reward of five hundred dollars, to be reimbursed by the United States to the State paying the same, for discovering the said Longchamps, so that he may be arrested, and requiring their civil officers to arrest him, and their citizens in general to be aiding and assisting herein, that he may be brought to justice for his said violation of the laws of nations and of the land, and all others may be deterred from the commission of such offences:"

And whereas, It is of very high importance to the good people of the United States that the perpetrators of such atrocious offences, which tend to interrupt the friendship so happily subsisting bebetween his most Christian Majesty and the said States, and to disturb the public repose, should be brought to condign punishment: We have thought fit to offer, and do hereby offer the reward of five hundred dollars aforesaid, and also a reward of five hundred dollars, in addition to the same, to any person or persons who shall apprehend and deliver the said Longchamps into the new gaol in this city: And all Judges, Justices, Sheriffs, and Constables, are hereby strictly enjoined to make diligent search and enquiry after, and to use their utmost endeavours to apprehend and secure the said Longchamps; and the citizens of this State in general are required to be aiding and assisting therein, so that he may be dealt with according to law.

A Message from the President & the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—Council having judged it absolutely necessary that you should be called together before the day to which you stood adjourned, it became their duty to convene you accordingly, altho' they regretted the inconveniencies to which you would be subjected by meeting so much sooner than you intended.

The Secretary will lay before you an act of Congress of the third day of June, requiring a body of troops to be forthwith furnished, with some other resolutions of the same, prior, and subsequent dates; a collection of papers relating to the case of Charles Julian de Longchamps, and another of those respecting the late disturbances at Wyoming.

The necessity of adopting measures conformable to the requisition before mentioned, is so urgent as to admit of no delay.

The late violations of the rights and privileges of public Ministers point out the propriety of further provisions more effectually to guard the honor, repose, and welfare of the United States, and of this Commonwealth in particular, against the licentious temerity of individuals.

We have carefully endeavoured to prevent any breach of the peace on account of the interfering claims to lands in Northumberland county, but not so successfully as we desired. We must rely upon the prudence and authority of your Honorable House for establishing tranquility in that part of the State.

A draft of a message to the Honorable the General Assembly, was read—adopted as follows, and presented by the Secretary:

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—We inclose acts of Congress of the twenty-third of March, and the nineteenth, twenty-seventh, and thirtieth of April last; and as they relate to affairs of great national moment, we are persuaded they will obtain from you an early attention and a just regard.

Together with these, you will receive letters from the chairman of the committee of the States of the second of this month; the late Minister of France of the twelfth of June; from Mr. De Marbois of the twenty-first of June; from General Hand of the fifteenth, ineteenth, twenty-third, and thirtieth of July; and from the Chevalier Du Bouchet of the twenty-second of May, with many nclosures.

We also transmit copies of our several instructions to the Commissioners appointed by us on Indian Affairs.

The acts for guarding the city and liberties from danger of gunpowder; for imposing duties on importations; for making vessels iable to pay the tradesmen employed in building and fitting them; nd for enabling the Comptroller General to issue certificates for he ballances due on the accounts, require some amendments.

The laws on the first subject have not sufficiently provided gainst careless and improper landing of powder.

The defects in those for imposing duties on importations will ppear from a letter of the Collector, and some observations upon t.

The act for making vessels liable in the manner before mentioned, may oblige the merchant, after payment to the person with whom alone he contracted, to pay the tradesmen employed by that person.

It does not appear that the late act for enabling the Comptroller General to issue certificates extends to the case of creditors on account of confiscations, as a particular mode is directed by a former law for their payment, tho' from the reasonableness of such an extension, it probably was meant by the Legislature.

There are other persons whose demands the Comptroller was bound by law to settle in State money. The General Assembly, on the twenty-fifth of June, 1781, restrained the issuing and reissuing of that money by their resolutions of that date. We should be glad that this matter might be taken into consideration.

Major Thomas B. Bowen and Captain Ercurius Beatty, are appointed agents, as you will perceive by the papers herewith sent, to receive from the Paymaster General the certificates for the arrears of pay due to the officers and soldiers of our line, and to distribute them among the owners. Their dispersed situation, and other circumstances, convince us that all possible facilities ought to be afforded by their country for effecting the distribution. We therefore desire that you, gentlemen, will be pleased to authorize us to draw upon the treasury for a compensation to the agents in travelling to the different parts of the State for this purpose.

JOHN DICKINSON.

GENTLEMEN:—As the measures lately adopted by your Honorable House, with regard to Indian affairs, will probably enable us to proceed in executing the act for the benefit of the officers and soldiers of the Pennsylvania line, passed the twelfth day of March, 1783, we think it necessary to observe, that the good intentions manifested by the Legislature in that act, will, in our opinion, be in a great degree defeated, unless it is revised and amended.

To afford the persons concerned the advantages designed for them, the mode of making their applications should be rendered plain and easy, and the business of surveying so regulated that even the weak and uninformed may be guarded as much as possible against distresses and injuries.

On consideration of the following letter from his Excellency the President, received this morning,

Resolved, That the measures adopted by Council on the second instant be pursued.

The Honorable the Vice President and the Supreme Executive Council:

PHILADELPHIA, October the 5th, 1784.

GENTLEMEN:—Being still much indisposed and unable to attend in Council to-day, I think it my duty, notwithstanding what has been already offered, to request that you will be pleased further to consider the propriety of calling a body of militia into actual service on the intelligence yet received, and in the manner proposed.

The objects suitable for the operations of militia do not appear. Heinous offences, it is true, have been lately committed, whether by many or few is not ascertained, but it cannot be expected that the militia should apprehend the criminals. Exertion by the Magistracy of the county, with the aid of the posse comitatus, would be the proper remedy.

No advice is come of such an attack upon the Pennsylvania claimants as required the late call; and I believe that one reason why Council ordered the fort to be levelled was, that the peace of the State might not be disturbed by another siege.

The present call will unnecessarily expose the lives of our fellow-citizens. If the militia is to act for the protection of the inhabitants in general, and can be collected and brought into the neighbourhood, it is highly improbable that they can be kept there for any length of time. A rotation of service will be exceedingly inconvenient and expensive, and I presume no person thinks of expelling the settlers in order to prevent that rotation.

If the intention is that the militia should assist the Pennsylvania claimants in securing the corn planted on the lands from which the settlers were expelled last spring, such a procedure will drive those settlers into absolute despair. They will have no alternative but to fight for the corn, or suffer, perhaps to perish, for want of it in the coming winter.

The commissioners have informed Council that their determination on that alternative will most probably be:

They will regard this step as the commencement of a war against them, and perhaps others, whose sentiments are of vastly more importance, may be of the same opinion.

I am perfectly convinced at the uncommon merit of Colonel Armstrong. But the appointment of an Adjutant General upon this occasion, and bestowing that appointment on the Secretary of Council, when it is well known that the settlers view him in the light of an enemy, are circumstances that may promote unfavorable constructions of the conduct of Government.

The public bodies that have been lately assembled in this city have fully testified their disapprobation of hostilities on account of the disputes at Wyoming, and upon the whole, there is too much reason to be persuaded that the plan now meditated will, if carried into execution, produce very unhappy consequences.

Knowing the uprightness of your intentions, gentlemen, I feel great pain in dissenting from your judgment; and if the measure is pursued, from esteem for you and affection for the Commonwealth, I have only to wish, as I heartily do, that I may be proved by the event to have been mistaken. With the greatest and sincerest regard, I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Your most obedient and most humble servant,

JOHN DICKINSON.

I beg leave to remind Council of sending a copy of the late act for restoring the settlers to such Justices of Northumberland as Council may approve, with orders to proceed in its execution.

A draft of a proclamation was laid before the Council, which being read and considered, was adopted as follows:

By the President and the Supreme Executive Council of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, It hath always been the intention of this State to treat with equity, humanity, and generosity, the persons settled at or near Wyoming, tho' not claiming under Pennsylvania, and influenced by these sentiments, the General Assembly did, immediately after the decree of Trenton, adjudging "the jurisdiction and pre-emption of all the territory lying within the charter boundary of Pennsylvania, and claimed by the State of Connecticut, of right to belong to the State of Pennsylvania," upon the 25th day of February, 1783, appoint William Montgomery, Moses McClean, and Joseph Montgomery, Esquires, then being members of the said Assembly, "Commissioners, to make full enquiry into the respective cases of the persons settled as aforesaid, to confer with them, and with claimants under Pennsylvania, and to encourage, as much as posssible, reasonable and friendly compromises between the parties, and where this could not be done, to consider of and report such plans of accomodation as might be most advisable for accomplishing an equitable and final adjustment of all differences;" resolving, at the same time, "that as soon as might be after report made by the Commissioners, an act should be passed for consigning to oblivion all tumults and breaches of the peace which had arisen out of the controversy; and that an act should be immediately passed for staying proceedings at law during the said enquiry against any of the said settlers, for dispossessing any of them by ejectments or otherwise," which last mentioned act passed accordingly:

And whereas, Upon the report of the said Commissioners, it appeared, that "notwithstanding the zeal and industry used by them, and the offers of the Pennsylvania land-holders to the settlers, hopes of a friendly compromise seemed to be banished," yet the representatives of the freemen of the Commonwealth having ordered a bill to be brought in for repealing the act aforesaid, Resolved, "that as well to discover their moderation and equitable disposition, as in consideration of the sufferings of the settlers from the common enemy, a reasonable compensation in lands within the boundaries of this State, upon easy terms, should be made to the families of those who have fallen fighting against the savages, and to such others as actually did reside on the lands at Wyoming when the late decree was given at Trenton, upon their giving up possession to the claimants under Pennsylvania, or confessing judgment in ejectment:"

And whereas, Tho' several of the said settlers have availed themselves of the said resolution, and have each of them obtained "a certificate from the Secretary of the Land Office, under the seal of his office, for three hundred acres of land, to be located anywhere within the purchased and unappropriated parts of the counties of Northampton and Northumberland," and direction from the Surveyor General for "surveys to be made accordingly for a final confirmation of the said lands, free of purchase money," yet in general fears, jealousies, quarrels, and injuries, on account of the aforesaid pretensions, disturbing the peace of the inhabitants, the claimants under Pennsylvania did, in the month of May last, violently dispossess several of the settlers aforesaid, of the messuages, lands and tenements which they then occupied:

And whereas, We highly resenting such a violation of the laws, did forthwith, by instruction to the honorable the Judges of the Supreme Court, then on their circuit, and by other proper means, endeavour that the said offenders should be duly punished, and tranquility restored and preserved, in pursuance whereof a considerable number of them, and all that could be found, were arrested and prosecuted, and the Courts of this Commonwealth were open and ready to afford every just compensation to the parties injured, without distinction of persons; nevertheless, the settlers aforesaid, not claiming under Pennsylvania, assembled in arms, and acted in a riotous and tumultuous manner, and on the 20th day of last July, lying in ambush in the township of Shawana, fired upon some claimants under Pennsylvania, and grievously wounded Henry Brink and William Vangarten, and proceeding in their outrages, drove the claimants under Pennsylvania from their habitations into the fort, and besieging them therein, reduced to great distress, and into imminent danger of their lives:

And whereas, We being informed of these aggressions, and judging it to be our indispensable duty for preventing the effusion of blood, and for preserving peace and good order, did call into service a body of militia from the county of Northampton, the said settlers in open defiance of the authority of this State, and to prevent their being interrupted in the vengeance designed by them against the besieged, marched from the county of Northumberland, in which the said Fort is situate, into the county of Northampton, and at Locust Hill, in the same county, on the 2d day of last August, attacked a party of the militia then sleeping and resting, wounding several, and killing and murdering Jacob Everett, one of the party:

And whereas, The government of this Commonwealth persisting, notwithstanding the signal provocations aforesaid, in that treatment of the settlers, which clemency, benevolence and liberality had at first recommended, the General Assembly did, by a law made upon the day of last month for that purpose, only make provision for the immediate restoration of the settlers dispossessed as aforesaid, in the month of May last, to the messuages, lands and tenements, which they at that time occupied; and upon the seventh day of the same month, did resolve that Commissioners should be appointed to obtain the most exact knowledge they can get of the names of the widows and children of such persons as were lately settled at or near Wyoming, and who have fallen fighting against the savages; and also of all others as did actually reside on the lands at or near Wyoming when the late decree was given at Trenton; and of the widows and children of such of them as have since died; of the quantity of land possessed by each of the persons before described at the time of his death, or of the said decree respectively, and of the improvements on each of the said parcels of land; of the nature of the claim on which the possession of each parcel as aforesaid was founded, and of the evidences in support of such claim, and what parts of such lands are claimed under Pennsylvania, and by whom; and to make report of their proceedings with all convenient dispatch, so that this State, upon the fullest information that could possibly be procured, might be enabled to make a proper distinction between those persons whose cases are recommended by any considerations of equity or humanity, and others in different circumstances; and thereon to take such measures as became the dignity of the Commonwealth: and upon the ninth day of the same month we appointed the Honorable John Boyd, Lieutenant Colonel, John Armstrong, Colonel, James Read and John Oakley, Esquires, Commissioners, for carrying the resolution aforesaid into execution, who thereupon immediately repaired to Wyoming:

And whereas, On the night of Sunday, the 28th day of last month, the settlers aforesaid attacked the houses in which the said Commissioners were lodged, firing several balls into the same, whereby the said Commissioners were in great danger of being killed, and for the preservation of their lives, were obliged the next day to leave the place without being able to perform the trust committed to them for the immediate benefit of the said settlers; and in the next succeeding night, the said settlers again attacked one of the said houses, when the people therein were asleep, and wounded Captains Samuel Read and Andrew Henderson, late officers of the Pennsylvania line:

And whereas, It is of the utmost importance to the lives and welfare of the good people of this State, that the perpetrators of such atrocious offences should be brought to condign and exemplary punishment, we have thought proper to issue this proclamation, hereby engaging that the public reward of twenty-five pounds in specie shall be paid to any person or persons who shall discover and apprehend the offenders, or any of them, who wounded the said Henry Brink or Wilhelmus Vangarten, or who fired into the houses in which the Commissioners of this State were lodged at Wyoming as aforesaid, and that the public reward of fifty pounds in specie shall be paid to any person or persons who shall apprehend and secure John Swift, Elisha Satterlee, Ishmael Bennet, Junior, Joel Abbott and Waterman Baldwin; and that the public reward of twenty-five pounds, in specie, shall be paid to any person or persons who shall apprehend and secure William Ross, Moses Sills, William McClure, John Minor, Abraham Nesbitt, Elijah Harris, John Gore, Justus Gaylor, Thomas Stoddert, Elisha Harding, Gideon Church, William Jackson, Richard Holsted, Phineas Stephens, Daniel Sullivan, Abraham Pike, Nathaniel Walker and William Jenkins, or any of them, who are charged with being the murderers of the said Jacob Everitt, or who shall discover the offenders, or any of them, who were guilty of wounding the said Samuel Read or Andrew Henderson; each and every of the said rewards to be paid on conviction of each and every of the said offenders or murderers respectively; and we do hereby charge and require all Judges, Justices, Sheriffs and Constables, to make diligent search and enquiry after, and to use their utmost endeavors to apprehend and secure the offenders and murderers aforesaid, their aiders, abettors and comforters, and every of them, so that they may be dealt with according to law.

Given in Council, under the hand of the President and the seal of the State, at Philadelphia, the fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four.

A Message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—It is with pleasure we inform you that the dangerous obstructions caused in the navigation of the river Delaware by the chevaux de frize, are now entirely removed.

The Secretary will lay before you a letter and certificate from the Wardens of the Port upon that subject, as also the proceedings of the Supreme Court in the case of Charles Julian de Longchamps; a letter from the Commissioners appointed to meet the Indians; an address from the Grand Jury of the city and county of Philadelphia, and several papers relating to the disturbances at Wioming.

The Commissioners for running the boundary line between this State and Virginia have been for some time, and still are, employed in that service.

There have been great irregularities in the late elections for the counties of Lancaster and Northumberland. As the right to a seat in Council depends upon the return made to us from the former, and it is probable that the election of Representatives will be contested, respect for your Honorable House induced us to appoint a day for the attendance of the witnesses, which we judged might be convenient for your examination of them. We have accordingly appointed the eighth day of November. A list of those whom we have ordered to be summoned will be herewith delivered.

The liberty, happiness, and honor of the good people of this Commonwealth, are so deeply interested in the freedom and purity of elections, that we ardently wish the present regulations respecting them may be taken into consideration by the Legislature. Many inconveniencies might be avoided if all the acts were reduced into one; and we rely on your wisdom for making further improvements to guard against artifices that, by corrupting the source of our laws, must be pernicious to the public welfare.

JOHN DICKINSON.

Council Chamber, Philadelphia, November 3rd, 1784.

Ordered, That the Secretary present the same to the General Assembly.

A letter from Charles Thomson, Esquire, informed that the United States, in Congress assembled, have elected his Excellency Richard Henry Lee, Esquire, to be their President for the ensuing year, was read and filed.

A draft of a message to the General Assembly was laid before Council, and the same being read and considered, was adopted, as follows, and presented by the Secretary, viz:

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—Having received authentic intelligence that a purchase has lately been made by our Commissioners from the Six Nations, of all the lands not before bought from them, within the limits of this State, and having reason to believe that the purchase will soon be compleated by a conveyance from the Western Indians of their right; our attention has been turned towards the execution of two laws depending upon such an equitable establishment of our boundaries, we mean an act entitled "An Act for the sale of certain lands therein mentioned," &ca., passed the twelfth day of March, 1783, and the act intitled "An Act for opening the Land office," &ca., passed the first day of April, 1784.

The principles of these laws we generally and highly approve, but as we think some alterations proper for producing all the beneficial effects intended by the Legislature, we earnestly wish your revision and amendment of them.

In considering these laws, objects of immense importance to the good people of Pennsylvania, and their posterity, are brought into view.

It appears, by a state of the public debts which we have received from the Comptroller General, and now inclosed, that there are upwards of two millions and a half of dollars due by the Commonwealth, and more than five millions and a half due to citizens and inhabitants of this State by the United States. By a judicious disposition of the lands directed to be sold for certificates, &ca., by the laws before mentioned, and to be paid down, very large portions of these incumbrances might be discharged, and the people of this Commonwealth be enabled to bear, without distress, the taxes that might then be necessarily required from them.

On the other hand, we think it our duty to observe, that by the best information we can obtain, and upon the fullest deliberation, we are all perfectly convinced that if a fund is first established by this State for payment of the interest of the said debts, or of either species of them in general, the sale of the lands, from which such great advantages have been expected, will afford but an inconsiderable relief to our constituents from their burthens.

On the former plan, the consideration for the lands would be immediately received by the Commonwealth, and the demands to that amount be at once extinguished. On the latter, or funding system, the lands would only sell for low prices, and if credit should then be given to the purchasers, their payments of principal or interest could never be relied upon as a supply. They would be slow, irregular, and perhaps not to be obtained but by compulsion. Multitudes of persons, in distant parts of the State, would be involved in the same circumstances; the cause would be common; might therefore, excite combinations and disturb the public peace.

Other mischiefs, and as great as the foregoing, will, in our opinion, attend the adoption of the funding system at present. A heavy load of taxation must instantly fall upon the freeholders and other inhabitants of this Republic. It would be some consolation if it was likely that they could see an end of it. But we judge it will pass to their descendants for ages, as an inheritance that in many instances will eat out any estates which they can leave to them.

As to the consequences of dealing in funds, they are well known. They are such as it is certain every wise State ought to make vigorous exertions for reducing them into as small a compass as is possible.

The generous and benevolent temper of Pennsylvanians might be more reconciled to these evils, if they could be persuaded that such extraordinary efforts must be made for relieving widows, orphans, and worthy citizens, whose situation in life was rendered uncomfortable by the application of their property to the use of their country, or for assisting the original holders of other certificates, or their legal representatives. But efforts of this extent are not requisite for the attainment of these ends. The Legislature has heretofore adverted to such respectable claims. We refer to the act intitled "An Act for providing the quota of Fœderal supplies, &ca.," passed the first day of March, 1783, and a supplement to it, passed the twenty-fifth day of September in that year, and to an act entitled "An Act to appropriate certain monies arising from the excise," &ca., passed the same day of March, and a supplement to it, passed the twentieth day of September, in the same year. It is an indisputable truth, that a very large number of certificates have been bought for a very trifling part of the sums mentioned in them, from those to whom they were issued. If these purchasers are to receive six per cent. interest upon the nominal sums contained in their certificates, they will frequently, and we believe generally, receive from forty to fifty per cent. interest annually, on the specie which they actually paid for them, besides the rise in the value of the principals; and persons who were obliged to take the certificates from the public instead of gold and silver, and afterwards to sell them because the public did not pay them, must bear their proportion of taxes for converting them into gold and silver, in the hands of such purchasers.

If the hardship of these cases is to be aggravated to the first owners, it will, by reflecting that the buyers of the certificates, in all probability, were led by general conversation on the subject, and by the tenor of our laws, to contemplate the laying them out in purchasing lands from the State, without any expectation of receiving an annual interest of six per cent. in specie for the sums specified in them. Thus, while some will be suddenly elevated to great wealth, others will be proportionally depressed, the rewards of industry being transferred by this fluctuation from the latter to the former.

There is another circumstance connected with this subject, and deserving notice. It is easy to foresee how the certificates will rise in value when they are funded. Very many freeholders in different parts of the State, and particularly at a distance from the city, who mean only to form moderate settlements for themselves and their children, have not yet taken out patents for their lands, tho' payments may be made in certificates. The presumption is that they have none.

The possessors of certificates will have all these and unquestionably many widows and orphans at their mercy, and may tax them at discretion. A dealer in land and certificates may have got a township cheaper than in such case one of these persons can get a small plantation.

When we pursue our enquiries respecting a general funding plan by this State in its relation to the Confederation, our concern increases.

Congress has been faithfully labouring since the conclusion of the war, to give efficacy and permanency to the arrangements of peace. Prudence and the true interest of America, must produce a just regard for the councils of that body. Without this regard, all the wisdom and virtue of these States will fail to make us a happy people.

We consider the plan we have spoke of as interfering with Fœderal measures, and tending to weaken the Union. A treaty has been held with the Indians, and a large territory ceded by them. The Commissioners have proceeded to another. The lands acquired will be disposed of, and other steps will be taken to support the National faith and honor. Let us hope that they will be supported; at least let us not declare to the world that they are desperate.

We cannot forbear to mention our apprehensions that such a plan will exceed the ability of the Commonwealth, and injure its credit; and that we shall be likely to involve ourselves in greater difficulties than our proportion of the common debt will occasion. The duties upon importations have been encouraging, but your Honorable House will truly weigh the variety of events that are combined with that delicate subject.

If Pennsylvania shall take up one load we think too heavy for her, and be able to bear it in time of profound tranquility, we should endeavour to anticipate her situation if that tranquility shall be interrupted.

We will only add upon this point, that by the act before mentioned, "for providing the quota of Fœderal supplies," &ca., a tax of six hundred dollars was laid, one half payable in the Treasurer's notes, to be issued to citizens of this State who were public creditors. Of this half, about one hundred and sixty thousand dollars only were accordingly issued, and of these, which ought to have been all redeemed on the first day of last July, there yet remains a ballance of about seventy thousand dollars unredeemed.

Called upon by the Constitution, by the Confederation, and by our affection for the Commonwealth, to offer what information we can upon affairs of so much moment, we ardently wish your Honorable House may join with us in opinion, that it is proper, first to relieve the citizens whose circumstances demand the most immediate attention; next to dispose of the lands belonging to the State to the best advantage; allow time for the United States to carry into effect their measures for the benefit of the Union; and then to provide for paying principal and interest to the public creditors who remain unsatisfied, in such manner as shall by the Legislature be judged equitable and advisable.

A Message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—The President having reported in Council a conversation between General Washington and himself respecting Mr. Thomas Paine, we have thereby been induced to take the services and situation of that gentleman at this time into our particular consideration.

Arriving in America just before the war broke out, he commenced his residence here, and became a citizen of this Commonwealth by taking the oath of allegiance at a very early period.

So important and disinterested were his services during the late contest, that those persons whose own merits in the course of it have been the most distinguished, concur with a highly honorable unanimity in entertaining sentiments of esteem for him and interesting themselves in his deserts.

It is unnecessary for us to enlarge on this subject. If the General Assembly shall be pleased to appoint a Committee, they will receive information that we doubt not will in every respect prove satisfactory.

We confide that you, gentlemen, will then feel that the attention of Pennsylvania is drawn to Mr. Paine by motives equally grateful to the human heart and reputable to the republic; and that you will join with us in opinion, that a suitable acknowledgment of his eminent services and a proper provision towards a continuance of them in an independent manner, should be made on the part of this State.

GENTLEMEN:—Application has been made to us by the Commissioners of the county of Montgomery, for the sale of the old jail and workhouse in the city, in pursuance of the powers vested in us by the law passed the twenty-eighth day of February, 1780.

It appears from the law for erecting the county of Montgomery, that a part of the money arising from such sale, proportionable to the taxes paid by the said county, shall be applied by the Commissioners thereof in purchasing a piece of land, and building a Court House and Prison; but we do not recollect any directions given by law in what manner the other part of the said money shall be applied for the benefit of the city and county of Philadelphia.

By a law passed the seventeenth day of February, 1762, a lot containing fifty feet in front, on the south side of Chesnut street, and seventy-three feet in depth on the west side of Fifth street, was appropriated to the use of the city for erecting a public building to hold Courts of Common Halls, and another lot of the same front on Chesnutt street, and of the same depth on the east side of sixth street, to the use of the city and county of Philadelphia, for like purposes.

We request you will be pleased to take these circumstances into consideration, and ascertain by law, how the money that may arise from the sale before mentioned, and belonging to the city and county of Philadelphia, shall be applied.

It may be proper on this occasion, to inform the General Assembly that there are in our possession bonds and mortgages lately belonging to the corporation of the city, to the amount of near fifteen hundred pounds, exclusive of interest for several years.

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:

As an affectionate concern for the welfare of Pennsylvania prompted our message of the fourth of December last, the same disposition will govern our reply to your answer of the twenty-fourth of that month. For if, in the discussion of affairs so important to the good people of this State, we should suffer any motive to tempt us into digressions from the subject, we should think ourselves wanting in our duty to them, and in the respect that upon every occasion ought to be observed, and which we are always pleased to have opportunities of testifying for your honorable House.

It affords us much satisfaction to find that two points, which appeared to us very material, one of them mentioned in our message, and the other in conference with your committee appointed upon it, are now provided for in the "Act to alter and amend the act for opening the Land Office," &c., passed the twenty-first day of December last, so that the inconveniences apprehended from giving credit upon the sales of the lands, and from not limitting the price below which they should not be sold, are to be prevented.

Happy should we have been if your sentiments had corresponded with our own upon another question of moment; that is, whether this Commonwealth shall immediately assume all the debts of the United States to citizens of this State, and establish a perpetual fund for paying annually six per cent. interest upon them, under the direction of the State.

It cannot be pretended that the honor and justice of this State are more loudly called upon to make this assumption than the honor and justice of the United States are to render it needless. As little can it be pretended that "public credit will be recovered" by a procedure announcing that the "public credit" of the Union, in which the prosperity of all confederated America is bound up, cannot be relied upon.

Our situation is that of a State united with others by compact; and hence is derived a primary obligation not to take any step that may "interfere with fœderal measures, or tend to weaken the Union."

With this situation we were anxiously desirous of reconciling the relief of our fellow-citizens who are creditors of the United States. It was, therefore, our first wish, that any means devised for this purpose might have been managed with the authority of Congress. Their wisdom, integrity, and benevolence, with regard to such creditors, are evinced by their acts of the fourth of September, 1782, the eighteenth of April, 1783, and the twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth of April, 1784. Proper representations would surely have obtained all the success that might be compatible with the most essential interests of the Union.

But as the legislative branch chose to proceed without making this application, our next wish was, that the business might be conducted in such manner that we might not appear either to dictate to the United States, in Congress assembled, or to reduce this State to such a condition as to be unable to supply competent payments upon future requisitions to the Continental Treasury, unless by a general distress of the people.

Thus the great question has arisen, whether Pennsylvania ought, in the circumstances actually existing, to establish the before described perpetual fund.

Your Honorable House has expressed a "wish that we, instead of resting on a general declaration, had pointed out the interference of such an establishment with Fœderal measures." With deference for that wish, we will now endeavour to shew the interference.

By the confederation, "all charges and expences incurred for the common defence or general welfare, and allowed by the United States, in Congress assembled, are to be defrayed out of the common Treasury, to be supplied by the several States, and the necessary sums for the service are to be ascertained, appropriated, and applied by Congress."

In their act of December the sixteenth, 1782, Congress say: "By the confederation, Congress have an absolute discretion in determining the quantum of revenue requisite for the national expenditure. No State can dispute the obligation to pay the sum demanded, without a breach of the confederation; and when the money comes into the Treasury, the appropriation is the exclusive province of the Fœderal Government."

It is indisputable that these Powers comprehend the whole management of the national debt. Congress, in their act of April 27th, 1784, mention their requisition of one million and two hundred thousand dollars on September the fourth, 1782, thus: "This requisition gave licence to the States to apply so much as should be necessary of their respective quotas of it to the payment of interest due on certificates issued from the Loan Office of their own States, and other liquidated debts of the United States contracted therein."

Then, mentioning their requisition of one-half of the eight millions of dollars, they add: "But while this proportion of former deficiencies is of necessity called for, under the pressure of demands which will admit either denial nor delay, and the punctual compliance of every State is expected, to enable the Fœderal administration, with certainty, to satisfy these demands, it is earnestly and warmly recommended to the abler States to go as far beyond this proportion in specie as their happier situation will admit, under an assurance that such further contributions will be applied towards discharging the public debt, agreeably to the preceding statement, and will be placed to their credit in the next requisitions, with interest thereon from the time of payment."

Again, on the twenty-eighth of the same month, Congress, "observing, that of the purposes for which money is wanting, about three-fourths can be answered by nothing but money itself," require them to "be paid in actual money, allowing discounts of interest with domestic creditors as to the other fourth; the said three-fourths, or greater proportion, if any State should not avail itself of the facilities, in the degree admitted, paid in money at the same time, to be applied according to the above statement." As to the balances that may afterwards remain of the requisitions of eight and of two millions, Congress, by their resolutions of April last, deferr "the calling them into payment," until the States shall be more able to comply.

Such are the powers vested in Congress, and such has been their unquestioned exercise of them. How wisely or beneficially they have been thus vested, it would be idle to enquire. It has been demonstrated, that in order that they may provide in the best manner for the honor, the defence, the harmony, and welfare of these States, their hands ought rather to be strengthened than weakened.

Taking into our serious consideration these circumstances, and "the design of establishing a perpetual fund for the quota of this State of the annual interest of the aggregate debt of the United States contracted during the late war," and for appropriating and applying the same under the direction of this State, to the payment of its own citizens, it appeared to us a matter of the utmost importance that this plan should be executed upon such principles as to be satisfactory to the United States.

Here is to be the faith of this State perpetually plighted to a particular class of the creditors of the United States, and its revenues, to the amount of its whole quota of the debt, exclusively and without limitation of time pledged to them. We say without limitation of time, for the proviso in the bill published, "that the payment and appropriation aforesaid of the said quota shall cease whenever the United States shall make and carry into execution other effectual and permanent provision for paying the annual interest and arrearages of interest due and arising on their aforesaid debts," does not remove the objection. This clause plainly alludes to the unexecuted recommendation of the eighteenth of April, 1783, before mentioned in the bill, and to the recital before made in it, "that a considerable time may elapse before a general and effective plan for the good purposes aforesaid may be formed and ratified by the several States, so as to be put in execution." But until such other permanent provision and plan shall be so made and ratified, the first obligation under the confederation, for every State to pay its quota, upon requisitions of Congress, into the common Treasury," still continues in full force.

We, therefore, were of opinion that if the permanent appropriation and application by this State as it pleases of portions of its quota of the general charges and expenses, "to a particular part of those charges and expenses, so as to reclaim on that account against requisitions of the United States, could be rendered agreeable to them in Congress assembled, it must be by these two considerations. First. The distress of the persons provided for; and secondly, the keeping ourselves in capacity, if possible, after such provision, to make competent payments into the 'common treasury.'

Both these ends we expected might be attained by confining the provision to the original holders of certificates, and to societies to which they had been given for benevolent purposes, to be continued by the same law to the holders of them, upon alienations subsequent to the provision, as was done in the case of alienated certificates mentioned in a supplementary act passed the twentieth of September, 1783, so that the original holders, who are the persons distressed, might, in selling their certificates, have the advantage of their raising in value in consequence of the provision being made.

The plea of distress for these "respectable claimants" would be truly affecting, but how much must it be confused and weakened by mixing with these claims the demands of purchasers of certificates. It was with this view we made the few and short observations in our message respecting those purchasers. Their merits or demerits we undertake not to judge, but we contend that their pretensions ought not on this occasion to be blended with those of real distress. Let the State deviate as little as possible from the Confederation, and in deviating, let not the only plea be falsified that can be offered in its excuse. We are for leaving the purchasers of certificates what they voluntarily and cheerfully became, upon terms that must be extremely advantageous to them, that is, creditors of the United States, with the priviledge that has raised the value of their certificates, and they have no right to ask, repeatedly held forth by the laws of this State, of laying them out in lands, which, at a price fixed by the last law, we believe may be generally done by them at the rate of from three pence to twelve pence an acre.

In support of these sentiments, permit us to quote the following memorable words from an act of Assembly passed the first day of June, 1780, after the operation of the laws for making Continental bills of credit a legal tender had been suspended, and signed by the worthy gentleman as Speaker who now holds the same honorable office:—"The depreciation of the currency of the United States now in circulation, and the speculation which has taken place in consequence thereof, has opened a door to numerous frauds, and may operate to the general injury of virtue and morality and to the great dishonor of the State, unless timely prevented, and the prospect of an appreciation, unless regulated on just and equitable principles, might likewise be followed by a train of evils as pernicious as those we have already experienced, and not only encourage, but enable such persons as have obtained large sums for small values, to derive an undue advantage therefrom."

Why need this State interfere with the intentions of Congress concerning such purchasers. That honorable body has declared that a proper attention shall be paid to them. Let us remember that they have declared also that, if from the deficiencies "of the least able States, accomodation cannot be effected among the several objects mentioned, a preference shall be given in the discharge of the interest due upon the foreign debt." Surely we cannot forget that in this resolution are involved considerations of the highest consequence to the States.

Speaking of those to whom this debt is due, Congress in their address of the eighteenth of April, 1783, employ this emphatic language. "To an ally, in the first place, who to the exertion of his arms in support to our cause has added the succour of his treasure; who to his important loans has added liberal donations; and whose loans themselves carry the impression of his magnanimity and friendship."

To individuals in a foreign country in the next place, who were the first to give so precious a token of their confidence in our justice and of their friendship for our cause, and who are members of a republic which was second in espousing our rank among nations.

What arguments can justify Pennsylvania for giving a preference "over such creditors to dealers in certificates, and deliberately chusing to pay forty and fifty per cent. interest annually to the latter upon their real capitals, rather than to pay her proportion of four or five per cent. interest annually to the former upon their real capitals? for the interest of the foreign debt is no higher. What will the nations of Europe think of our honor, our faith, our gratitude, and our Union, when they hear of such proceedings? 'Tis true, if all the other States were in "happier situation," and could punctually pay their respective quotas, the interest of the foreign debt would still be regularly paid, tho' we should prohibit, as the funding bill proposes, any part of it from being paid by our quota. But, from the words of Congress, it seems that this is not quickly to be expected; and therefore, with the "earnestness and warmth" before mentioned, and excited by their intimate knowledge of our national affairs, they entreat "the abler States" to yield all the aid in their power. Instead of a compliance with this entreaty, the funding bill is calculated to prevent Congress from managing even our quota of the interest of the national debt.

'Tis also true, that if "a general and effective plan for the good purposes aforesaid can be formed, and ratified by the several States, so as to be put in execution," as the bill recites, that interest may then be regularly paid. But it is uncertain when such a plan will take place—if soon, the provision against which we object is needless—if late, the objection operates with greater force.

The second consideration, which in our opinion might have effect in rendering an appropriation and application by this State as it pleases, of portions of its quota of the general charges and expences to a particular part thereof, in the manner before mentioned, agreeable to Congress, was the keeping ourselves in capacity, if possible, after such provision, to make competent payments into "the common Treasury."

The "bills of credit" to be emitted, are to be received in payment not only for lands, but also "for all customs, imposts, duties, and debts to the State, and for the arrearages of all general taxes, and for all taxes to be assessed." How far this regulation, and a new appropriation by this State of the residue, after one-half of our quota of the eight millions of dollars shall be paid, as the funding bill expressly purports, are reconcilable with the acts of Assembly of 1782, and 1783, by which the faith of this State is given to the United States, "for the payment of our quotas of the eight millions and two millions of dollars, in gold and silver, to the orders of the said States," merits consideration, especially as Congress, in April last, assigned this reason for not immediately making larger demands than they then did; that "if the whole balances of those two requisitions should be rigorously called into payment within the course of that year, a compliance with such call would produce much distress."

Our sentiments are, that deducting from our quota of the national debt a sum equivalent to the annual interest on purchased certificates, which upon such an estimate "as present circumstances will admit," we believe are one-half of all that have been issued in this State, such sum, together with our quota of requisitions for the expences of the government of the Union, be promptly paid from time to time, if our finances can enable us, into "the common Treasury;" the United States in Congress assembled will then appropriate and apply the money as they ought to do. The dealers in certificates will scarcely venture to say, that those of whom they freely became creditors, are not to be trusted with paying them.

By proceeding in this manner, we shall allow ourselves means to discover what our real strength is, and also what is the real weight of the burthen now treated of; we shall hold ourselves in respectful readiness to comply in a satisfactory manner, it is hoped, with requisitions of Congress, which will undoubtedly be made, as honor justice, and the general welfare shall require. If our quota of such requisition shall not equal the income which we can easily raise and spare, how bright a prospect will open to Pennsylvania for employing the opportunity in improving the navigation of our rivers and the passage upon our roads, the defects of which threaten us with immense losses.

By these and other "cares," not unworthy of the rulers of a free people, a lively circulation may be promoted, and a strong connection formed between the several counties; the mutual blessings flowing from thence, be universally perceived and valued; and in a short time the whole body of the State, healthy, robust, active and animated, be enabled cheerfully to bear loads that otherwise would be oppressive.

How far the ability of the State will at present extend, is a point demanding the strictest attention and investigation before this Commonwealth, in the circumstances now existing, shall commit her faith and revenue for an indefinite period of time, and for an indefinite sum of money, in the manner designed by the funding bill published for consideration.

It appears by the resolutions of the General Assembly of the fourth of December last, upon which the funding bill is founded, that the sum of one hundred and eighty-three thousand two hundred and thirty-two pounds must be annually raised "to pay the interest of the debts of the United States to citizens of this State, the interest of the debt due from and assumed by this State into a separate capacity, and the payments to the late proprietaries, exclusively of the civil list and other ordinary expences of government, and also of such other debts as are funded on particular revenues."

It further appears from these resolutions, that the estimate of debts is inaccurate, and only such, "as present circumstances will admit, 'and Congress mentioning the national debts, give the amount,' as far as they can be now ascertained."

Proper methods are in process for determining with certainty and in reasonable time, the debts due by the United States, and by this State, but the business is not yet accomplished. At present it is unknown what may be the amount of the engagements meditated by this State, especially as by the act of Assembly passed the first of December last, for appointing additional Commissioners, if it is carried into execution, debts may be assumed by this State as due by the United States, for which no credit may be allowed by them to this State. Another risque this State will be exposed to by the multiplicity of counterfeit certificates; a mischief which can only be effectually guarded against by the authority of Congress from their controul over the public offices. This we are assured of, that there is a great mass of demands against the United States, still remaining to be liquidated, in this State, whatever may prove to be the amount of them, when they shall be settled, the funding bill includes them all. The duties upon importations, and the taxes of seventy-six thousand nine hundred and forty-five pounds seventeen shillings and six pence, are appropriated for paying the interest upon the whole; and agreeably to the principle of the bill, if those duties and taxes are not sufficient, others must be imposed.

Your Honorable House is well apprised of these additional impositions, for your own resolutions of the 4th of last December, a few minutes before our message was delivered, and which are the foundations of the funding bill, declare that "an annual tax of one hundred thousand pounds is necessary." It cannot be imagined, that the State will make a scramble for the interest money among the citizens, and pay the most importunate, leaving the rest unpaid. Indeed, if the money upon this fund should not come into the Treasury as fast as it is demanded, which will probably be the case, there can be no doubt but some creditors will, from their activity and situation, have a manifest superiority over others who live at a greater distance, and are not so well acquainted with public affairs, and the management of money to the best advantage.

To the sums necessary for these purposes, supposing as much and no more necessary for them than the bill mentions, are to be added our quota of the expences of the Fœderal Government, and all the expences of our own, computing the former at thirty thousand pounds, and the latter at twenty thousand pounds, which we think a moderate calculation, this State must annually raise two hundred and thirty-three thousand two hundred and thirty-two pounds, besides the interest of the debts already funded on particular revenues, and amounting yearly to eleven thousand two hundred and eighty-four pounds six shillings and four pence, exclusive of county rates and levies, and of the taxes peculiar to the city. Of this sum of two hundred and thirty-three thousand two hundred and thirty-two pounds, one hundred and fifty thousand pounds, at least, are to be taken from the people by direct taxation, and levied by Collectors; nor is this the whole sum to be thus taken from them. The expence of assessing and collecting, &c., will amount to above ten thousand pounds more. 'Tis true, there are some branches of revenue that may possibly lessen these direct taxes; but they cannot be relied upon to any large amount when contrasted with the encrease of public expences.

By a report adopted by the Honorable the Council of Censors, the thirteenth of last August, and since approved by your Honorable House, it appeared that these were the following balances of taxes unpaid:—In Continental money three millions one hundred and sixty-one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven pounds seven shillings and eight pence; in State money one hundred and thirty-six thousand six hundred and eighty-one pounds four shillings and eleven pence; and in specie four hundred and seventy-six thousand two hundred and thirty-nine pounds and ten pence half-penny.

Considering it as our duty upon this occasion to make enquiries that might lead to just conclusions respecting the circumstances of the State, and its ability to pay the intended taxes, we have endeavored to obtain information. From accurate accounts, that may be depended on, we learn that the annual amount of all taxable property, together with the rates upon polls, in 1771, was only three hundred and sixty-eight thousand and forty-five pounds; that the increase of population from 1760 to 1770, a period of public prosperity, was but about one fourth, and that the exports of staple comodities from this city in 1773 greatly exceeded those of the same kind in 1784, as will appear from the inclosed schedules.*

It is said, in the answer to our message, "We see no cause to depreciate the ability of the State, as well as its credit, when we reflect that in the year 1782, when we had neither rested from the ravages of the war, nor tasted the blessings of peace, a tax of four hundred and twenty thousand pounds was imposed, and tho' heavy, was not insupportable. In the year 1783, a farther tax was laid for two hundred and twenty-five thousand pounds, without any aid from the sale of lands."

As to the former part of this sentence, we see much greater evils likely to arise from exaggerating the ability of the State, some of which it would perhaps be more prudent to think than speak of, than from depreciating it, if that was done. As to the taxes mentioned, tho' they were laid early in each year, yet of the whole six hundred and forty-five thousand two hundred and ninety-seven pounds and fifteen shillings, for that was the exact amount, no more than two hundred and two thousand three hundred and sixty-seven pounds two shillings and four pence, not one-third of the whole, were paid into the treasury of this State, on the first day of the present year: that is, on an average, only sixty-seven thousand four hundred and fifty-five pounds fourteen shillings one penny and three farthings in each of the three years, tho' in that period, those who were zealous in the cause of their country, made the most strenuous exertions to pay their taxes, in order to determinate a destructive war, and thereby obtain peace, liberty, safety, and sovereignty; and we are convinced that many thousand of our fellow citizens have experienced very severe difficulties in paying their shares of the collections. Among these are to be reckoned large numbers of that respectable class of our fellow citizens, the mechanics and manufacturers, who have been lately, and now are, less able to pay taxes than they were in several preceding years. Is it to be reasonably expected then, that this State can, without "producing much distress," raise annually, by direct taxation, one hundred and fifty thousand pounds, besides the expences of the collection?

We cannot, therefore, upon a review of facts forbear believing, that the following expressions of Congress last April, in describing the condition of America, are as applicable to our fellow citizens in general, and to great numbers of them in the frontier counties and elsewhere, as pointedly as to the people of other States. "Their abilities must be measured in weighing their burthens. Their creditors themselves will view them, just relieved from the ravages of prædatory armies—returning from an attendance on camps to the culture of their fields—beginning to sow, but not yet having reaped—exhausted of necessaries and habitual comforts, and therefore, needing new supplies out of the first proceeds of their labor. Forbearance then, to a certain degree, will suggest itself to them. Congress, entrusted with the dispensation of justice between the public and its creditors, will suppose both parties desirous that their mutual situations should be considered and accommodated."

Indeed the resolutions of the General Assembly of the fourth of December last, which contain the funding plan, expressly acknowledge the distresses that would attend the burthens to be imposed, for there it is resolved that "in order to enable the good people of this State to pay the tax and arrearages of taxes with greater ease and facility, bills of credit to the amount of the aforesaid sum of one hundred and eighty-three thousand two hundred and thirty-two pounds be prepared and issued."

Whether this mode of "enabling" those who have not paid will appear equitable to citizens who have paid their taxes in specie upon the same assessments, and whether it be adviseable to give such favor to delinquency, are matters that call for some attention. How it can possibly add to the commerce, wealth, or prosperity of the State, when all our products are at such high prices, and industry in raising them is sure of receiving adequate rewards, we are utterly uninformed? In what part of the world has such an operation ever produced such effects? This truth we are assured of, that it never can "enable" the delinquents to pay their taxes, unless the paper comes depreciated into their hands, or they happen to be public creditors who receive it in the first instance. For, if it should continue on a par with gold and silver, how can they get more of it by their labor, or by their products, than they can of gold and silver at present. Can it, by any intrinsic energy, raise the real prices of labor or products? If it can, what a misfortune will it be for this State to have them raised within itself by means operating solely within itself, to prices disproportionate to the relative demands of commerce abroad?

Whether, after recent experience, and while State money to the amount of upwards of one hundred and sixty thousand pounds already issued, and depreciated to two and a half for one, is still falling in price, though lands may be patented by it, and it is called for in taxes, and while such quantities of certificates are passing, it will be practicable to render paper money "a medium of commerce," rather than an article of commerce, is to be determined. If Pennsylvania was a State the commerce of which was entirely internal, and gold and silver could be proscribed and utterly banished, paper might be that medium. But if our merchants are to deal in a currency which has no estimation in other States and countries, we cannot answer other uses of money, and is subject to dangers and apprehensions of fluctuation in value, to what embarrassments will they, and to what hazards will the commerce of the State be exposed? How is it in the nature of things, possible that paper can answer all the purposes of gold and silver, unless the possessor can, when he pleases, convert it into such money? Is it not likely then, that these metals will at length prevail over such a currency, and that it must depreciate? We also fear it will open a new source of speculation to the profit of the artful and the affluent, at the expence of the uninformed and the necessitous, whom your Honorable House, in distinguishing some of the same kind from the purchasers of certificates, has been pleased to call "the foolish and the necessitous." Whether their weakness be accidental or natural, we desire that the protection of laws may be extended to them.

We ardently wish to save widows, orphans, officers, soldiers, and other worthy citizens, who have contributed their property by placing it in the Loan office, or otherwise, to the use of their country, or who have served her, and still hold their certificates from such unequal contests as have been just mentioned, and from any possibility that what their country pays to them should again deceive them by depreciating in their hands. Let their case be separated from that of dealers in certificates, and let them be truly paid in specie. That this provision should not be exceeded by this State at this time, and in the manner proposed, is, in our judgment, recommended by honor, justice, humanity, policy, and a regard for the Confederation.

Should the paper to be emitted not answer all the ends of a medium of commerce, though receivable for any demands by the State, it may yet have pernicious efficacy in expelling, for some time, large quantities of gold and silver from circulation. During that period the difficulty of paying debts, and the disappointment of the benevolent purposes for which the paper was originally intended, will be earnestly displayed.

Your successors may urge that the making it a legal tender is the only provision wanting to cure these disorders. With what probability of success any person acquainted with public transactions can easily determine.

The iniquities of tender laws, and the evils of a paper currency, may, we hope, be avoided, if the funding plan is confined to the objects we wish to be comprehended. For this purpose the arrearages of taxes and the imposts, may be sufficient for several years to turn all the gold and silver arising from the imposts, &c., into paper, and to re-tax those citizens who have paid their shares of former taxes, while such large sums are still unpaid by others; and to make these extraordinary efforts in order to pay an immense interest to the purchasers of certificates, are measures that tend to the injury of the Commonwealth, however profitable they may be to some individuals.

But it is objected, in the answer to our message, that "the discrimination between original holders of certificates and purchasers must be extremely difficult." Admitting the difficulty, yet it is surmountable. Such a "discrimination" may be made. It can be made, notwithstanding all the obstructions so ingeniously magnified by purchasers of certificates, and their friends. It has actually been made, and in an instance quoted in the answer, "the appropriation of the excise for the benefit of the army;" and accordingly interest is now annually paid for near two hundred thousand pounds, upon certificates retained by the original holders 'till the provision was made, so that more than one-half of the depreciation certificates were, by the said discrimination, excluded, because they were alienated; and if they had not been excluded, the original holders would not have been paid, for the fund is little more than sufficient to discharge their interest. If the like distinction is not made now, original holders will find themselves about as much relieved by the present funding plan, as original holders would have been without the distinction in the case mentioned. We are glad that this instance was referred to. It is confessed in the answer that "the most unexceptionable fund is provided to support these certificates of the army." Such it undoubtedly is. Yet, what is the consequence? These certificates, thus funded, sell at the rate of thirty or thirty-five pounds cash, for an hundred in certificates. Does not this fact prove how much more than "extremely difficult it is to restore public credit" by the efforts of one of these States.

But, whatever difficulty may occur in making the discrimination alluded to in our message, that is, in limiting the provision to be made to the original holders of certificates who at the time of becoming creditors of the United States, were, and still continue citizens of Pennsylvania, now having their homes therein, and the executors and administrators of such as have deceased since the debts so contracted, and those who hold them by donations for benevolent purposes, we are convinced that the difficulty will be much greater in making the discrimination proposed in the funding bill, and that, in executing that bill, if passed into a law, it will be impossible to guard against abuses and frauds.

Reverence for public stipulations compell us to make another reflection on this "fund to support the certificates of the army." The excise is, and then was, payable in gold and silver. The public faith of this State was solemnly given, with all the sanctions of law, to the officers and soldiers of the Pennsylvania line, that "the said appropriation of the excise should be and continue a permanent fund for the purposes aforesaid;" that is, the payment of the interest on their certificates "until means should be provided for the payment of the principal sums specified in said certificates respectively;" yet, by the funding bill, the interest of these certificates is to be paid in paper.

The answer also objects to the manner in which we mentioned the acts of March, 1783, and their supplements in the September following. Here seems to have been some mistake of our meaning. We mentioned them to show that distinctions had been made by the Legislature, and the funding bill itself makes distinctions.

There appears to have been another mistake as to what we said concerning "buyers of certificates being led by general conversation upon the subject, and by the tenor of our laws, to contemplate the laying them out in purchasing lands." The truth is so notorious, that we did really hope we might be excused for noticing it, for the purpose, not of revoking any engagement contracted with such persons by the Commonwealth, but for the purpose of preventing any engagement being contracted with them that might be attended by several perplexing embarrassments. Besides, this observation was strengthened by being joined with "the tenor of our laws." We alluded to the act entitled "An Act for the sale of certain lands therein mentioned, for the purpose of redeeming and paying off the certificates of depreciation given to the officers and soldiers of the Pennsylvania line, or their representatives," &c., passed March the twelfth, 1783, by which the lands to be sold were to "be paid for in gold or silver, or in the certificates aforesaid;" and also, the act entitled "An Act for opening the Land office," &c., passed April the first, 1784, which enacts, that "all the aforesaid certificates of depreciation, the certificates for monies loaned to the United States by citizens of this State, or granted in the name of or for the use of such citizens, and such certificates as have been or may hereafter be granted to the officers and soldiers of the late Pennsylvania line, and all other depreciation certificates granted to officers and soldiers of this State, and all certificates for commutation and for arrearages of pay, and the certificates of the Commissaries, Quarter Masters and Forage Masters, and also certificates for debts due to the citizens of this State from the United States, or from this State, shall be received in payment for the lands sold."

We know of no other fund established or intended, till last sessions, by this State, in a separate capacity, for paying the interest on the debts due by the United States to the citizens of this State. Therefore, it seems a fair "supposition," that the dealers in certificates, unless they were endued with a spirit of prophecy, or some intelligence extraordinary, could not, in their traffic for them, rely upon any other fund being established by this State.

Another paragraph in the answer is either erroneous, or may lead into errors in the construction. It is said, in mentioning the national debt, and the resolutions on the 16th of December, 1782: "Unfortunately no fund has been found by Congress to pay even the interest, or any part of it, from that time to the present." If the meaning of this clause is, "that no fund has been found by Congress" different from the mode fixed in the Confederation, it is right. But if the meaning is, "that the interest, or any part of it," has not been paid by contributions, upon requisitions from Congress, according to the Confederation, it is wrong.

As to the provision said to be made in New Jersey, we are not informed of the particulars. The conduct of no State can abrogate fœderal duties, or alter our sentiments concerning the measures that may be proper for this Commonwealth.

We have carefully considered the many quotations in the answer; and, we trust, we have fully shewn, not only that they are very remote from any contradiction to the sentiments expressed in our message, but that the message strictly and faithfully adheres to the principles and purposes held forth in those quotations. With regard to the conclusion of "the address," &c, which your honorable House was pleased "to recommend" to our attention, we have endeavored, but find it impossible, to believe, that an address made by Congress "to the States," expressly to enforce, by "the most powerful considerations," as the answer observes, the establishment of an ascertained fund, simple and productive in its nature, general in its principle, at the disposal of a single will, defined and established on the faith of the States, solemnly pledged to each other, and not revocable by any without a breach of the general compact," for these are the words of Congress, could be intended by that body to promote such a plan as is contained in the funding bill, which is directly opposite to their national, consolidating views and designs.

With as little success, we have tried to discover the many mistakes in fact, from which erroneous consequences have been deduced in the message, as the answer alledges. Could they have been discovered, they should have been acknowledged. We are not only deeply sensible how fallible we are, but also how criminal we should be by persisting in errors that might injure Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen, our message was, with unanimous consent, intended "to offer what information we could upon affairs of much moment" to our country." This reply, with the like unanimity, pursues the same design, and could not be earlier, as your answer was not delivered to us till four days after your adjournment.

This mode we think as agreeable to the Constitution and to practice, as that of Conferences. Conscious of the uprightness of our intentions, we are willing that our consituents and the world should be perfectly acquainted with the motives of our conduct; and as we are freemen, and have the honor to serve an independent sovereign people, we esteem it our right and our duty to deliver our sentiments upon subjects in which they are interested, in such manner as we judge most likely to contribute to the advancement of their welfare.

The report of the Comptroller General upon the claims of Captain Thomas Houston, to pay, commutation of half pay, and depreciation, was read and committed—Mr. Biddle and Mr. Hiester the committee.

The accounts of Jacob Weis, Esquire, for expences in removing a British prisoner from Easton to Reading; of John Craig, for militia supplies in 1777; and of John Nesbit for ditto in 1778; were read and approved, as reported upon by the Comptroller General.

Orders were drawn upon the Treasurer in favor of Frederick Watts, Esquire, for the sum of five pounds eighteen shillings and nine pence, due for supplies to the army; and of Peter Shelp, for thirty-eight pounds one shilling and six pence; and of Isaac Klots, for the sum of thirty-five pounds ten shillings and four pence, State money, due for horses furnished by them for public service, agreeably to the Comptroller General's reports, to be paid according to resolution of the General Assembly dated the eighth day of April, 1782.

Timothy Green, Esquire, was appointed and commissioned a Justice of the Peace and of the Court of Common Pleas in and for the county of Lancaster, upon a return made according to law, for the district of Hanover township.

The petition of Robert Kennedy, (supported by the recommendation of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas,) praying the remission of a fine and imprisonment imposed at the late Court of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace held in the county of York in July last, upon conviction of a conspiracy against the life of a certain —— Simpson, was read, and an order taken that the fine aforesaid, of fifty pounds, adjudged to the use of the Commonwealth, be remitted, and that he, Robert Kennedy, be released from all further confinement upon finding sufficient security for his future good behaviour, agreeably to sentence.

An order was drawn upon the Treasurer in favor of Captain Joseph Stiles, (in part of his account as Commissary of Military Stores, as reported upon by the Comptroller General,) for the sum of fifty pounds specie, for which sum he is to account.

A draft of a message to the Honorable the General Assembly was read and adopted, as follows:

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—The Secretary will lay before you letters from the President of Congress of the twenty-fourth day of December, and a proclamation and resolutions of that Honorable body of the second instant; from the Governor of Connecticut of the twentieth of that month; from our delegates of the nineteenth and twenty-seventh of January; and from the Commissioners for Indian Affairs, of the eleventh of December, with several inclosures and a number of depositions concerning the expulsion of many Pennsylvanians from their dwellings and possessions at and near Wioming, and other outrages committed against them by persons not claiming under this State.

Among the many objects deserving the attention of your Honorable House, one of the most important, in our judgment, is the establishment of an improved system of revenue, founded on just, and therefore salutary principles, digested in the clearest order, governed by the most economical arrangement, and wherein matters of a similar nature, with all the necessary provisions relating to them, shall be classed together in the same law, so that the same parts being duly combined, all monies levied upon the citizens by public authority, may pass through as few hands as possible, without deceit or delay, into the Treasury.

By the act for establishing the Comptroller General's office he is directed "to keep accounts of the revenues and expenditures of the Commonwealth of every kind," and "to call persons to account for monies belonging to the State, except the Collectors of Taxes and the Treasurers of counties."

This exception tends to introduce confusion and remissness, and militates against the principal design of the act, The Comptroller General ought, we apprehend, to be furnished by the respective Commissioners with duplicates of assessments for every county, immediately after they are made, particularizing not only the taxes to be collected thereon, but also those outstanding on former assessments; the kind of money in which they are payable; the names and sirnames of the persons assessed; the townships in which they reside; the names and sirnames of the Collectors, and for what districts they are appointed; and returns of all abatements or exonerations. If there are afterwards any new appointments of Treasurers or Collectors, they, together with accounts of fines incurred by neglect or refusal to perform the duties required by law, should be forthwith notified by the several Commissioners to the Comptroller General. He will then be enabled to call the Treasurers to account, and if they and the Collectors are properly enjoined to give receipts, truly dated, for taxes paid; never to retain more than certain moderate sums in their hands at any one time; and in their accounts rendered, to ascertain the day when every sum was received and paid; many mischiefs would be prevented. The Treasurers should be empowered to compel Collectors to a performance of their duty. The Comptroller General should be bound always to report to Council the delinquent officers' names, and in or about the month of December in every year, to publish and distribute through the counties the accounts of every County Treasurer, specifying in the order of townships, the names and sirnames of the persons who have paid their taxes; the sums paid; the kind of money; the times when and the officers to whom; and also a list of those who have not paid, and of the sums due by them.

To these should be added an annual publication of the expenditures, with as extensive an enumeration of particulars as may be conveniently practicable. By this mode the taxes may be easily and exactly traced from the private purses of the citizens who pay them, into the public purse of the Treasury; deficiencies be readily discovered; and frauds and neglects be quickly disclosed.

Thus every freeman will have the satisfaction of knowing, that what he contributed has been applied to the general welfare, in which his own is involved, and that any abuses in diverting it from that end, cannot escape detection and punishment. It will also be an encouragement to him to pay his taxes cheerfully when he perceives that they are so well guarded, so faithfully disposed of, and so strictly accounted for to him. Reason and experience demonstrate that it is the undoubted right and interest of a free people to be as fully informed of the administration of public affairs as circumstances will possibly admit, and it is evidently the duty of their servants to use every exertion that they may be thus informed.

We are much pleased, after a careful examination, to find that the expences of the publications necessary for attaining the before mentioned advantages, when compared with the benefits to be derived from them, are too inconsiderable to be regarded.

By an act passed on the twenty-second day of November, 1782, Justices of the Peace are in some cases vested with a power to collect the impost on goods, wares, and merchandizes. This seems to be an improper distribution of power, the difficulty of having the duties accounted for being so very great.

We should deem ourselves guilty of an unpardonable offence against the citizens of this Commonwealth, if we should forbear to call before the notice of your Honorable House, and warmly to request the interposition of your authority upon another matter relating to taxation. A practice has prevailed since the revolution, as we are informed, for the persons concerned in making assessments, to add to the tax required by law, and to lay large sums upon the inhabitants to compensate for deficiencies. We believe the intentions of these persons in acting thus have been honest, but we are of opinion that such proceedings are inconsistent with good government, and are dangerous examples. The Representatives in Assembly are, in the imposition of taxes, to estimate every circumstance that can diminish them, and upon consideration of contingencies, to fix upon such a sum that the neat proceeds brought into the Treasury will answer the end proposed by the tax.

The expences of every State tax are very considerable, and by law are to be drawn from the county Treasuries. If this mode is not altered, we apprehend that at least the accounts upon which such draughts are made should be exhibited to the county Treasurers, and by them in their settlements to the Comptroller General, so that the whole expence of the State incurred by such taxes, and the manner of expenditures, may be brought into public view, and by a comparison of proceedings in the several counties, a regularity may be established that will be least expensive.

For further observations on the revenue and other matters of much consequence to the welfare of the State, we beg leave to refer to some of our former messages.

In executing the offices with which we have been honored by our country, we have judged ourselves bound to make diligent enquiries, that thereby we might be better enabled to discharge the trust reposed in us. From these we are induced to entertain a lively hope that, if industry, frugality, deliberation and caution, are exerted in regulating and managing the finances of this State, they may be placed upon such a footing that every demand for which honor or justice requires a provision, may be satisfied in such a manner that, under the favor of Providence, the people may be happy, and valuable strangers not be discouraged by the confusions of our currency or the burthens of our taxes, from fixing their residence in Pennsylvania.

By the forty-second section of the Constitution, "every foreignor of good character, who comes to settle in this State, having first taken an oath or affirmation of allegiance, may purchase lands; after a residence of one year becomes a free denizen, and in two years is capable of being elected a representative."

As no mode is directed for determining whether a "foreignor is of good character," many unworthy persons, not having a sufficient evident common interest with, and attachment to the community," to use the words of the declaration of rights, "acquire all the privileges of citizenship." We shall receive great satisfaction if your Honorable House shall agree with us in opinion that the foregoing section should be enforced by the establishment of some authority to decide what foreignors are comprehended in the preceeding expressions, so as to be properly intitled "to the rights of natural born citizens of this State," and shall be pleased to make provision accordingly.

We have had occasion to observe that the laws relating to marriage, the office of Sheriff, the suppression of vice and immorality, and the election of Justices of the Peace, require several amendments. A specification of them is contained in a paper that will be herewith delivered. Besides those, there is a variety of cases that cannot with propriety be enumerated in a message, in which improvements neade be made in the laws. To explain our meaning, we were therefore, obliged during the last session to arrange a number of them in the form of a bill. As they are designed to prevent unnecessary delays and expences in legal proceedings, remove doubts, promote uniformity, establish decisions according to substantial justice, upon the truth of facts, and the merits of every cause, and further to secure the peace and rights of our fellow-citizens, and advance their welfare, we very earnestly wish the subject may engage the consideration of your Honorable House.

The regulation of prisons seems to be a care peculiarly becoming a free people. The slightest portion of affliction needlessly added to that which results from restraint of liberty, is an offence committed by the State.

But that places of legal confinement should be so contrived as to produce disease or become scenes of impurity and oppression, and schools of vice, must be deplorable and reproachful in the extreme. To guard against effects so inconsistent with policy, humanity and religion, every information should be sought for, and every effort employed. To contribute as much as we can to such desirable purposes, we inclose heads of all those regulations that in our apprehension may be useful in deliberations of this kind.

JOHN DICKINSON.

Council Chamber, Philadelphia, February 9th, 1785.

Defects in the law for suppressing vice and immorality. Gaming except in or near public houses, is not sufficiently provided against; cock-fighting, bull-baiting, and other methods of drawing multitudes together for some public diversion, are not prohibited with proper extent and exactness.

Defects in the law for electing Justices of the Peace:

The Justice should mention in his prœcepts, the names and sirnames of the freeholders who apply to him for an election; he should mention the district and the township or townships of which it consists, the cause of the vacancy and the name and sirname of the Justice last commissioned for the district.

It should be determined by law in what district a freeholder is to vote who holds land in one, and resides in another; who are freeholders qualified to votes, disputes frequently arising concerning holders by warrants or survey, mortgages, deeds, made a short time before the elections, and where the feoffees have never been in possession; the return should mention the number of votes for each of the candidates. The payment of expences in contested elections should be provided for by law. On refusal or neglect of Constables, Overseers, Inspectors or Assistants, to proceed to another election, where the first has been legally declared void, and due, process issued thereon, penalties should be inflicted. Power should be vested in Council to order the examination of such witnesses in disputed elections as they may judge proper, and to divide districts in the interior counties. It should be settled by law, whether a county town, incorporated, has a right to chuse six Justices of the Peace elect, to be returned for the appointment of three by Council, besides the Burgesses thereof, under the incorporation.

The Clerk of the Peace should certify that the district mentioned in the prœcept and return consists of the township or townships therein mentioned, as composing the district, and no more, and that there is such a vacancy as is mentioned in the precept.

The defects in the laws concerning the office of Sheriffs are:

That there is no power to direct a new election where the elec- of Sheriffs has been irregular. There is the same defect as to the election of Commissioners.

The sureties of Sheriffs should be liable for the whole time that the person commissioned as Sheriff may hold that office within the next three years; Sheriffs and their sureties should give bond in larger sums.

Under-Sheriffs and Bailiffs should be prohibited from being elected Sheriffs, in such explicit terms that the laws may not be eluded.

Defects in the laws relating to marriage:

Licences should be so regulated as not to admit of abuses in countenancing improper marriages. The bond should be accommodated to circumstances, and should be directed in form by law.—Divorces and Alimony should be provided for.

A draft of a bill was delivered to Messieurs Clark, M'Conaughy and Clymer, on this subject.

The following draft of a message to the General Assembly, upon the subject of the late treaties with the different nations, was read and adopted:

A Message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—We have the pleasure of informing you that at a treaty held last October, at Fort Stanwix, with the six nations called Mohocks, Oneidaes, Onondagoes, Cayugaes, Senecaes, and Tuscaroraes; and at another held last January, at Fort Mackintosh, with the two nations called Wyandots and Delawares, the Commissioners on the part of this Commonwealth have purchased from the said Indians, all the territory within the acknowledged limits of the State that had not been before bought from them.

The minutes of these treaties, the deeds, and copies of our instructions, and several other papers relating to this business, will be delivered with this message.

These conveyances compleating the sale of all the lands in this State, thus happily finishing the transactions of a century on that subject, having been obtained at public treaties, agreeably to ancient custom, with the approbation of the United States, the Indians acknowledging themselves "kindly" and "genorously" dealt with, declaring that "Pennsylvania has never deceived or wronged them, and thanked her, not only from their lips, but from their hearts." We are perswaded that such a fair, equitable, and honorable confirmation of the public interest in so very large and valuable a tract of country, must be exceedingly agreeable to the good people of Pennsylvania.

It is cause of addition satisfaction that in accomplishing this important object, a due regard has been had for the Federal Councils, and that a friendly correspondence between the Continental Commissioners and our own, subsisted throughout the treaties.

As we have every reason to believe that the affections of the Indians are now conciliated, their confidence gained, and their former friendship restored, in such a manner that their present dispositions may, by proper measures, be improved to great advantages, we hope your Honorable House will judge their requests worthy of immediate attention.

We should not do justice to the merit of our Commissioners, if we neglected to express ourselves very sensible of the ability, diligence, frugality and fidelity, with which they have discharged the trust reposed in them.

JOHN DICKINSON.

Council Chamber, Philadelphia, February 24th.

On consideration,

Resolved, That an order be drawn upon the Treasurer in favor of the non-commissioned officers and privates of Captain Thomas Stokely's company of Rangers, agreeably to the Comptroller General's report dated the twenty-fifth day of February, 1784, payable to the claimants respectively, or their order, by the Comptroller General.

The following draft of a message to the General Assembly was read and adopted:

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—Having taken into our most serious consideration a transcript of the record of the conviction and attainder of Aaron Doan by out-lawry, transmitted to us by the Honorable the Judges of the Supreme Court, the capias and return, his two petitions, the answer of the Judges to a letter from us, and the consequences to citizens of this Commonwealth of establishing a precedent in a capital case altogether new, we are of opinion that a warrant cannot legally be issued by us for putting the said Aaron Doan to death upon the said out-lawry, for several reasons, the principal of which are contained in the paper herewith delivered.

As it is doubted whether there is any court from which a writ of error can issue, in this case, we think it proper to lay the whole proceedings before your honorable House, and leave it to your determination, whether it is advisable to reverse the outlawry, in order that the party, according to his prayer, may have a trial by jury, for the offence with which he is charged.

JOHN DICKINSON.

Council Chamber, Philadelphia, March 29th, 1785.

REASONS.

First—The outlawry of the said Aaron Doan being founded on the "Act for the advancement of justice and more certain administration thereof," passed May the thirty-first, 1718, the said act ought to have been strictly observed, and its directions pursued with an "exceedingly nice and circumstantial" exactness, especially as the penalty is so great, and the precedent may be so dangerous. 4 Blackstone, 315. (a.)

By Magna Charta, no man can be outlawed, but according to the law of the land. 1 Blackstone, 142.

But the proceedings aforesaid vary from the said act in these instances:

First—It is not returned by the Sheriff that the party was called on by proclamation "to answer to the Commonwealth," as according to the said act and capias ought to have been done.

(a) It seems generally agreed that, IN FAVOR OF LIFE, an outlawry of treason or felony might be avoided, by plea that the defendant was in prison, or in the King's service, beyond sea, &c., at the time of the outlawry pronounced against. But I take it to be generally agreed, that no outlawry for any other crime, (against a party rightly described) can be avoided by the plea of any matter of fact whatsoever. 2nd Hawkins's, Pl. 460.

2ndly.—It does not appear that the capias was delivered to the Sheriff three months before the return thereof, as the said act requires; it not being even returned that the proclamations were made by virtue of the capias.

3rdly.—The said act and the capias order the Sheriff to make proclamation, &c.; but the Sheriff returns that he caused public proclamation to be made, &c.

It does not appear that the Sheriff was present when the proclamations were made. In many cases of a much inferior nature, the Sheriff's presence is indispensably necessary. 4 Bac. 441.

4thly.—The act directs the proclamation in every Court of Quarter Sessions, &c; but the Sheriff returns that it was made at two several Courts of Quarter Sessions, &c.

5thly.—The act says proclamation shall be made for the party "to appear before the said Justices, at the said Supreme Court;" but the Sheriff returns that the party was called upon by proclamation to appear at the Supreme Court.

Secondly. The Sheriff returns upon the capias that the party was called upon "to appear at the day and time within specified,"* which might be done by general reference in the proclamation to the writ, without expressly mentioning the day and year when the party ought to appear. The return ought expressly to mention the day and year; and no intendment, however strong, is sufficient to supply the defect. 2 Hales, P. C., 203, 460, 94; 3 Bac. 767; 4 Burr, 2559.†

Where life depends upon proclamations, there cannot be too much exactness required, in order that the party may have due notice.

Thirdly. The Sheriff returns that he caused public proclamation to be made at two several Courts of General Sessions of the Peace, held at Newton, for the county of Bucks, &ca.

This return is not sufficient. It was solemnly determined on repeated argument, and the most serious consideration by all the Judges in Wilkes's case, to which the Honorable the Judges of

* The return (in the case of John Wilkes, Esquire) says—"I have caused public proclamation to be made, in manner and form as within I am commanded." This is certainly too loose: The proclamations are not sufficiently set out for the court to judge whether they were properly made or not. I thought this error "fatal."—Lord Mansfield in Wilkes's case. And the error would have been "fatal," if proclamations had been necessary in that case; but from the peculiar circumstances of it, they were not necessary. In Doan's case they are acknowledged to have been necessary.

†If an outlawry be returned that the party was exacted (called) at three several times in the 10th year of James, and that he was a fourth time exacted on the twenty-fifth day of February, and did not appear, without mentioning any year, and was a fifth time exacted such a day in March, in the tenth year of James, altho' it may be intended that he was a fourth time exacted in the tenth year of James, "yet the outlawry shall not be good by intendment." Hale and Roll, in the pages above cited.

the Supreme Court refer in their answer, that "from the PRECEDENTS, it appears that a series of judgments have required a technical form of words in the description of the County Court, at which an outlaw is exacted; that after the words "at my County Court," should be added the NAME of the County, and after the word "held" should be added the county of—(naming it.) In the return in the present case, the name of the county is not mentioned before the word "held." Lord Mansfield quoted several cases in which outlawries had been reversed for this defect; and one of them was an outlaw for Murder.

Upon the authority of these precedents, Mr. Wilkes's outlawry was *reversed, and they, together with the very remarkable judgment in his case, unite in proving the present outlawry to be erroneous, unless it is easier to take away the life of a citizen by outlawry in this State, than to inflict a lighter punishment by outlawry on a subject in England. 4 Burr 2563, &ca.

If precedents establish a form of words with so much force, tho' the Judges were clearly of opinion that they begun against law, reason and common sense, and that there was not a colour originally to hold these words to be necessary, and where the penalty is so far inferior, how much more ought they to be regarded, and how religiously ought the express injunctions of a law wisely and benevolently intended to guard against loose proceedings, to be revered when those proceedings are to condemn to death?

So critical have the Judges in England been with respect to outlawries, that we cannot find that the use of figures to denote time as in the return in the present case, has ever been allowed, and the difference of a single letter, as in this return, the writing "Doane" for "Doan," has been held a good objection for reversal. Style 182 334; Cro. Elizi 104; Cro. Ja. 576; 3 Bac. 767.

Fourthly. It appears very doubtful whether the issuing a warrant for the execution of Aaron Doan would be a regular proceedure, for these considerations:

1st. Because there never has been "an instance in Pennsylvania of a person being executed upon outlawry by Judicial proceedings alone."

2ndly. Because if the act for the advancement of justice, &ca., is construed to mean the executing of a person thereon attainted

*Lord Mansfield concluded his argument with saying, "I beg to be understood that I ground my opinion singly on the authority of the cases adjudged, which as they are on the favorable side in a criminal case highly penal, I think ought not to be departed from; and, therefore, I am bound to say, that for want of these technical words, the outlawry ought to be reversed." The other three Judges spoke seriatem, and concurred with the Chief Justice. 4 Burrows, 2565. In the same volume of Burrows' reports, page 2550, "If the Kings Council certify to him that there is error, he will not deny a writ of error." It is then from Justice.

by outlawry, it would be more sanguinary than the law then was in England, for the reasons given in the letter of Council to the Judges.

3rdly. Because in such a mode of proceeding, life is made to depend not only on a supposition of the party's being guilty of the crime with which he is charged, but also on a supposition of his being exactly informed of the fact (the making of the proclamations) to which he is not privy, and of which he may be totally ignorant. Thus this mode of proceeding aims only at the destruction of individuals, and, therefore, opposes that mild system of jurisprudence which the Constitution of this Commonwealth has adopted from principles that lead to a happy combination of humanity with legislation.

4thly. Because it would weaken that security which the Constitution of the State appears to have intended for its citizens, being a dangerous mode of proceeding that, if admitted, ought to be regulated by the most exact cautions, as a precedent of this kind established in time of tranquility, may become a very destructive engine of policy in times less peaceful.

5thly. Because it is unnecessary, as the penalties expressly mentioned in the act—"forfeiture of lands and tenements, goods and chattles"—might be judged by the Legislature a sufficient punishment, unless the guilt be proved in the usual manner.

6thly. Because the act in several foregoing parts of it, having mentioned many capital offences, and the punishments to be inflicted on the criminals who committed them, the words which have been quoted in the answer of the Judges, as extending the penalty in outlawries beyond forfeiture of lands and tenements, goods and chattels, may receive a reasonable construction by being restrained to such criminals as had been mentioned in the act before it takes notice of outlawries, and also should be prosecuted and tried; the whole clause taken together strongly implying an exclusion of outlaws as having escaped from prosecution and trial, and such construction is recommended, according to the excellent and well known maxim of law, by its operating in favor of life.

The words of the act for the advancement of justice, &ca., section the 17th, relating to outlawries, upon which this outlawry is founded, are these: "And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that if any person or persons who have been indicted or appealed, or hereafter shall be indicted or appealed, for any of the said crimes, did not, or will not appear to answer such indictment or appeal, the Justices before whom the same hath been, or shall be taken, shall award a writ called capias, against every such offender, directed to the Sheriff of the county where the party indicted or appealed are by such indictment or appeal supposed to be conversant, or in habit returnable before the justices of that Court where such party is, or shall be so indicted or appealed at the Supreme or Provincial Court next after the taking of such indictment or appeal, by which writ of capias the same Sheriff shall be commanded to take body of him or them so indicted or appealed, if he or they can be found in his bailiwick; and if he or they cannot be found, the Sheriff shall make proclamation in every Court of Quarter Sessions which shall be held for the said county where the said party indicted or appealed is supposed to inhabit or be conversant, as aforesaid. That he or they being so indicted or appealed, shall appear before the said Justices, at the said Supreme Court, on the day of the return of the said writ of capias, to answer our Lord the King, or to the party of the treason, felony, or trespass, whereof he or they are so indicted or appealed, which writ shall be delivered to the said Sheriff or Sheriffs, three months before the return thereof; after which writ of capias so served and returned, if he who is so indicted or appealed come not at the said day of return of the said capias, and yield his body to the Sheriff, he shall be by the Justices of the said Supreme Court, pronounced outlawed, and attainted of the crime whereof he is so indicted or appealed as aforesaid,* and from that time shall forfeit and lose all his lands and tenements, goods and chattles; WHICH FORFEITURE, and all other forfeitures expressed or implied by the said judgments, to be given upon the said capital offences mentioned in this act, after such criminal's just debts and reasonable charges of their maintenance in prison are deducted, shall go one half to the Governor for the time being, towards support of this Government, and for defraying the charges of prosecution, trial, and execution of such criminals; and the other half, or residue, shall go to such criminal's wife and children, equally; but if he leaves no wife or children, then to the next of his kindred, not descending lower than the second degree, to be claimed within three years after the death of such criminals, otherwise the same shall go to the Governor, as aforesaid, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding."

From the foregoing words, it appears that the forfeiture of lands and tenements, goods and chattles, takes place on outlawry in the case of "TRESPASS," as well as on outlawry in the case of "treason or felony." If, then, the words, "WHICH FORFEITURE," are to be coupled with the word execution, the construction will extend too far, and reach to outlawry in cases of trespass, which cannot be admitted. Of consequence, the words, WHICH FORFEITURE, relating to trespass as well as to treason and felony, must have been intended by the Legislature to be construed distinctly throughout the following part of the clause from the words OTHER forfeitures, expressed or implied by the said judgments, to be given upon the said capital offences mentioned in this act, &ca., and to go, &ca., towards support of government, and for defraying the charges of prosecution, trial and EXECUTION of such criminals, &ca; for there was no EXECUTION for outlawry in the case of trespass, and yet the same form of words appropriates the forfeiture in the same manner on outlawries in the cases of treason, felony or trespass. The words, said capital cases, make no separation between "treason, trespass or felony;" as to outlawries. These words refer plainly to OTHER forfeitures and judgments" than those on outlawry, which OTHER forfeitures and judgments had been before mentioned in the act, in several sections preceding that which treats of outlawry. The "OTHER forfeitures" referred to, actually depend on the offences being capital. The "forfeiture on outlawry" does not. Therefore, the words, "WHICH FORFEITURE," and the word "EXECUTION," cannot be relied on to prove that the Legislature meant that the penalty on outlawry, in cases of felony, should exceed that expressly mentioned, to wit: "Forfeiture of lands and tenements, goods and chattles." If that was the meaning of the Legislature, it is too obscurely declared to take away LIFE. It may also be concluded, reasonably, that if such had been their intention, they would have directed in what county the party is to be executed. Where the offence is charged to be committed, the indictment is found, and the proclamations are made in one county, and he is outlawed in another, which is the present case.

* In the record of this law there is no stop between the word "aforesaid" and the word "and."

A message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—With this message will be delivered acts of Congress of the twenty-third of February, seventeenth and thirty-first of March, twelfth and thirteenth of April, fourth, twentieth and the twenty-seventh of May, first and seventh of June, and the twentieth and the twenty-seventh of July; a letter of the fourteenth of April from the Secretary for Foreign Affairs; two letters from the War Office of the twenty-fifth of April and the twenty-third of June; one of the twenty-fourth of May from the Governor of Virginia; another of the twenty-eighth of July from the Governor of Massachusetts, with inclosures; and two from General Irvine of the first of June and the eighteenth of July; and several papers relating to outrages in the county of Northumberland.

We should be glad to be informed, as soon as possible, of your determination concerning the raising of the troops required from this State.

The interest of the Commonwealth will be greatly affected unless Congress speedily determines the controversy with those persons who hold land within our limits not claimed under Pennsylvania rights.

We should not think ourselves excusable if we should forbear to repeat, that great alterations are necessary in the militia laws. They should be reduced into one act, and such order given to the system that upon every occasion an adequate force, properly armed, equipped, and disciplined, may be promptly drawn forth, embodied, and employed.

As many circumstances render it probable that the attention of your Honorable House will be much engaged in considering the affairs of trade, we trust that your decisions will be combined with the most prudent and effectual measures for securing and extending our commercial intercourse throughout all its various and complicated branches, with the rest of the United States, which we regard as an object of very high consequence.

The articles of the Union being, in our judgment, very defective, we were induced two years ago "most earnestly to recommend that the Confederation might be strengthened and improved."

There was reason to hope that peace would afford so much leisure that this important work might soon be accomplished. The event indeed, has not corresponded with our wishes, but we are pleased to find an opinion generally prevailing at this time, that some amendment of the Confederation is necessary.

As we continue fully perswaded that the happiness of our posterity must, under Providence, depend upon the respect, tranquility, and safety that are naturally attached to an "extensive and well established empire," we anxiously desire that the present dispositions may be so directed that, instead of stopping at partial provisions, it may lead to as perfect an establishment as can be devised.

We, therefore, esteem ourselves indispensably bound, not only again to declare our sense that further authorities ought to be vested in the Federal Council, but to mention such as appear to us most material. These are the powers of regulating and protecting commerce; of imposing equal duties on importations for the purpose of raising a revenue, and collecting them by officers of the appointment of Congress; of imposing and collecting postage in the same manner, and for the same purposes; of punishing officers of the Confederated Republic in some prescribed manner of proceeding; of adjusting the quotaes of all charges and expences by a fixed, equitable, and easily practicable method; and of maintaining the law of Nations.

Many persons are now very earnest to have the first of these powers lodged in Congress, without limitation. If such an absolute resignation should be judged improper, there can be no doubt but the grant may be so modified as to produce the desired effects, without being liable to the inconveniencies apprehended from an unqualified cession.

We have received several applications, herewith transmitted, for licences to trade with the Indians, but have declined granting any until we could know whether they would be approved by the Legislature.

A number of invalids belonging to this Commonwealth, lately discharged from the service of the United States, have applied to us for their subsistence, according to the resolution of Congress in June last. The managers of the Alms House and House of Employment have, at our request, been so kind as to give them temporary relief.

These men, whose distresses proceed from their sufferings in the cause of their country, are recommended to her protection by such strong considerations, that we are confident the General Assembly will, with particular pleasure, adopt means for affording them immediate, regular, and liberal support.

Viewing it as a matter of some importance that these people should not be permitted to carry home with them any well-founded prejudice against either the justice or humanity of these United States, Council have thought proper to come to two resolutions upon it: The first was, that a copy of their petition should be transmitted to the Governor of Maryland, with a request that measures may be taken to investigate the facts relating to their treatment by Captain O'Donnell, and, if injured, that justice might be done them. The second, that the general Assembly should be requested to make such provision for them as may be necessary for their immediate health and comfort.

The following draft of a message from the President and Council o the General Assembly, was read and approved:

A Message from the President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—By the seventeenth section of the Constitution, he General Assembly are directed to cause compleat lists of the axable inhabitants in the city and each county in the Commonwealth respectively, to be taken and returned to them every seventh year, from the year 1778, in order to regulate and apportion upon those lists the number of representatives to be chosen for the ensuing period. As this is a matter of importance, and falls upon the present year, it appears to us that it would be well to attend to it as soon as possible. By the present criminal laws fines are a part of the punishment for a variety of offences; applications are continually made to us by the offenders for remission of such fines; and these applications are recommended by the Magistrates, on the sole consideration that the criminals being poor and unable to pay, become, while detained in prison, a charge to the public; as this is generally the case, the imposition of fines is rendered ineffectual as a punishment, and the satisfaction due by the laws to the community from the offenders, is not made. We, therefore, offer it for your consideration, whether means may not be found to oblige them to pay by labor what they are unable to pay in money, and whether this would not tend more to the prevention of offences, those especially which are committed thro' a vicious dislike of labor. In the General Reform of our penal laws, necessary in itself, and required by the thirty-eighth section of the Constitution, this particular will properly come before you.

Easy communication between the different parts of the State, is one of the means that contribute to its wealth and prosperity.—Our roads are generally bad, whereby the conveyance of our produce and merchandize to market is often obstructed, delayed, or rendered more expensive. If the repairing of roads was made a county charge, to be defrayed by a tax, and executed by contract, instead of being as at present an unequal burthen on the townships, we apprehend they would be kept in better order, and the public greatly benefited.

The establishment of an improved system of revenue is a matter that seems to us very necessary, and we therefore, earnestly recommend it to your consideration.

The test laws, however proper or necessary they may have been at the time and under the circumstances in which they were made, are at present, on various accounts, the cause of much uneasiness in the State. We are, therefore, of opinion that it is now expedient to revise them.

We should have sooner laid some of these matters before your Honorable House, but that we were unwilling to withdraw your attention from the important points recommended to you by Congress.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

Council Chamber, Philadelphia, Nov'r 11th, 1785.

Sheppard Bacon, of the township of Salem, and county of Salem, in the State of New Jersey, having produced a certificate of the apprehension and delivery into the jail of this city, of John McDowell, alias John McDonald, convicted of murder at the late Session of the Court of Oyer and Terminer for the county of Bucks, was read, and an order drawn in favor of the aforesaid Sheppard Bacon, for the sum of fifty pounds, agreeably to the proclamation of President and Council dated on the nineteenth day of July, 1785.

The following draft of a message from the Vice President and Council to the General Assembly, was read and approved:

A message from the Vice President and the Supreme Executive Council to the General Assembly.

GENTLEMEN:—With this message will be presented sundry papers which have been received during your recess, and which we have thought proper to transmit thus early in the session for your advice and consideration.

The several letters from Mr. Secretary Thomson will shew the state of the representation in Congress for the months of November, December and January last; and the circular letter from the Board of Treasury exhibits an account of the receipts and expenditures of the United States from the first of November, 1784, to the first of November, 1785.

Mr. Maclay's report of the temper of the six nations, and the success of his last commission, cannot fail to be very satisfactory, and adds another instance to the experience of Pennsylvania, that the friendship of Indians is only to be secured by treaties founded upon reciprocal advantage fairly conducted and strictly adhered to.

The letter from our Delegates of the thirty-first of December, and that from Alexander Patterson of the twenty-eighth of January, are immediately connected with a subject of much importance to the peace and honor of the State. From these papers it appears that the spirit of disorder which has so much prevailed in a part of Northumberland county, and which the State has so often and vainly endeavoured to reclaim by acts of indulgence, is still existing in great force, and that after having so long spoke the language of occasional disobedience, it is now meditating the means of lasting defection.

The paper signed John Franklin, &c., like many former and more explicit demonstrations of submission, can therefore, but be considered as intended to amuse and deceive.

Under these circumstances, we submit to the wisdom of the House, whether any new measures additional to those provided by your act of the twenty-fourth day of December last, should now be adopted, as necessary to correct an evil which forbearance tends only to strengthen and increase.

The negotiation with the States of Delaware and Maryland for the purpose of an improved inland navigation, has commenced, and we hope to receive the sense of those States upon our propositions before the close of your present session.

On this measure we would, however, wish to remark, that the reasonings which suggested it might, as far as they relate to Pennsylvania alone, be much farther and very usefully extended.

The increasing population and wealth of our western frontier, makes a more easy and intimate connection with it an object of much moment, and, considered in all its consequences, cannot fail to induce some early steps preparatory, at least, for opening a communication by water, between the Alleghany river and the West branch of Susquehanna river.

The letter of the thirtieth of January from Governor Henry, contains some resolutions of the Legislature of the State of Virginia, which, in our opinion, cannot but be too warmly recommended. It is the intention of these resolutions to bring about a Commercial Convention of the States, which we regard as the only efficient means immediately in our power to correct, or remove the many evils by which the trade of America has been so long and exceedingly oppressed.

By the forty-second section of the Constitution it is declared, that every foreigner of good character who comes to settle in this State, having first taken an oath or affirmation of allegiance to the same, may purchase, or, by other just means, acquire lands, &ca. &ca., and after one year's residence be deemed a free citizen thereof, &ca. &ca.

It may be the eventual misfortune of this State that no mode should yet have been adopted for ascertaining the good character of such foreigners as have come to settle among us, and exercise the rights of citizens; and we should hold ourselves very deficient in political duty, were we not to recommend that some measure should now be devised and adopted which, while it admitted the industrious and honest, would operate as an effectual bar against the idle and profligate.

The claims of Alexander McDowell and Henry Bedkin, Esquires, and of Messieurs Bedford, Neville, &ca., seem to be well founded, and have the recommendation of this Board.

CHARLES BIDDLE, Vice President.

PRESENT:

The Honorable CHARLES BIDDLE, Esquire, Vice President.

Evan Evans,

John Boyd,
Peter Muhlenberg,
Richard McAlister,
John Whitehill,
James McLene,
Issac Meason,
John Neville, and Jonathan Hoge.

The consideration of Mr. Muhlenberg's motion of the sixteenth instant, was postponed until to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of George Schlosser, Esquire, made report, which was read and adopted, as follows, vizt:

Your committee to whom the petition of George Schlosser, and the papers accompanying the same, were referred, beg leave to report, that they have carefully considered the same, and find that on the thirteenth and twentieth of June, in the year 1778, said Schlosser did advance to this State, on two orders of Council, the sum of two thousand pounds; this advance appears to have been made in consequence of the earnest sollicitation of Council at a time when the finances of the State were very low, and the necessities of the army very great. It also appears by extracts from the State Treasurer's books, that on the twelfth day of July, 1779, said Schlosser received two thousand one hundred and twenty pounds

It also appears, by a certificate from the Comptroller General, that one thousand pounds of the said money is charged by this State to the United States, at the value thereof, reduced by the Continental scale, at the period the same was advanced as above mentioned. It, as appears by a certificate from the Clerk of the Assembly, that a committee of the Honorable body, reported that the Comptroller General should be directed to grant to the said George Schlosser a certificate for the amount of the depreciation of the monies advanced by him to the Supreme Executive Council in June, 1778, and repaid in July, 1779. (This report does not appear to have been adopted.)

From the facts above stated, we are opinion that Mr. Slosser ought of right to have certificates issued in his favor, for such sum as would put him in the same situation in which he would have been if he had placed his money in the Continental Loan office at the time he advanced it to this State, but as we believe Council have not the power to take this step, therefore, submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That it be recommended to the General Assembly, to authorize and direct the Comptroller General to issue a certificate in favor of George Schlosser, for a sum of money equal to the depreciation of one thousand pounds, (being the sum he advanced to this State,) from the thirteenth day of June, 1778, and the depreciation of one other thousand pounds advanced as aforesaid, from the twentieth day of June, 1778, to the twelfth day of July, 1779, being the time the money was repaid. The money to be reduced by the Continental scale.

JAMES M'LENE,
STEPHEN BALLIET.

The following draft of a letter to the Speaker of the General Assembly, was read and adopted:
